Bombers Strike Hanoi Area

By EDWIN Q. WHITE
SAIGON (AP) — U.S. fighter-bombers returned to the Hanoi area yesterday to attack a storage area and an army barracks, the U.S. Command reported today. Each target was four miles from the center of the North Vietnamese capital.

Pilots hammered the Ha Dong army barracks, four miles southwest of Hanoi, for the second time since May 5. The other target was a supply storage area four miles north of the city, the U.S. Command said.

Communists shelled two U.S. posts just below the demilitarized zone yesterday to follow up destructive rocket and mortar attacks on two airfields near Saigon.

Intensified enemy activity, particularly the use of Soviet-made 140mm rockets with a six-mile range, raised speculation that Saigon itself may be in for some fireworks.

A North Vietnamese news broadcast said U.S. jets attacked "several populous areas" in Hanoi and in Ha Tay Province, southwest of that capital. It said five were shot down.

There was no immediate comment from the U.S. Command in Saigon.

Enemy emplacements that U.S. Marines believe are hidden deep underground within the demilitarized zone hurled 144 shells, mostly from 105mm howitzers, at positions of U.S. Marines and Army artillerymen at Gio Linh and Con Thien, inflicting both casualties and damage.

American batteries, including the long-range 175mm guns, responded with tremendous counterfire, working over terrain just north of the Ben Hai River. The river marks the border that divides the six-mile-wide demilitarized zone.

U.S. crews aimed their weapons with the guidance of aerial

Marchers Protest Death Of Negro in Jackson

By JOHN PEARCE
JACKSON, Miss. (AP) — Several hundred Negroes marched peacefully into downtown Jackson last night protesting the death of a Negro man felled by police gunfire during the Jackson State College riot Thursday night.

Police closely guarded the group as it proceeded into the business district, picking up in numbers as it went along.

Charles Evers, state field secretary for the National Association for the Advancement of Colored People told the crowd, "I came here to march and show our resentment to another murder." He called for Negro unity and said whites want "you to start arguing and bickering among yourselves."

After his speech from the steps of the City Hall, the marchers followed Evers back to a church near the Jackson State campus for a rally.

Rains May Save State From Drought

HARRISBURG (AP) — The heavy rains that have drenched Pennsylvania this month may save the state from a sixth consecutive drought this summer, weather and crop officials said yesterday.

Nelson Kauffman, climatologist at the Harrisburg-York State Airport, said of the recent rainy weather, "If we continue like we have been, we certainly won't be having any drought this year."

The weather bureau at the airport said more rain has fallen in the first eight days of this month than in all of May, June and July in 1966.

And the Water Resources Division of the U.S. Geologic Survey said that if the rainfall continues at its present level throughout May, streams in the state could be at their highest average flows in more than a year.

For the past five years, the entire Northeastern United States has suffered from a drought which has dried up streams, withered crops and created water shortages in many municipalities.

Last summer, for example, farmers in Central and South-Central Pennsylvania suffered heavy losses, and many municipalities in those sections of the state had to impose water restrictions.

The City of York was so short of water that the York Water Co. had to bring in a daily supply by truck. Harrisburg had to activate an antiquated pumping station on the Susquehanna River that had not been used in 30 years.

But because of the May rains, such measures may not be needed this summer.

S.P. Stringer, a Harrisburg City councilman, said he expected the water level at the city's six billion gallon Dellart reservoir to rise within inches of the spillway this weekend.

He said he was hopeful the city would not have to use water from the Susquehanna to augment its drinking supply this summer, even if summer rains "are not up to par."

— Equipment to be installed in the University of Pittsburgh's Hillman Library, which is now under construction.

— Alterations of a boiler plant at Warren State Hospital. The project's allocation is $16,000.

Federal Budget Deficit May Hit $15 Billion

By EILEEN SHANAHAN
(c) N.Y. Times News Service
HOT SPRINGS, Va.—The cost of the war in Vietnam is likely to rise next year by $5 billion over the administration's current official estimates, a group of business economists reported yesterday after extensive consultations with government officials.

The forecast has no public backing from any government source.

The predicted increase would bring the cost of the war to $26.9 billion in the fiscal year that begins next July 1.

Government officials have publicly given no indication that they think any such increase is likely. There have been no official revisions of the $21.9 billion Vietnam war expenditure figure contained in the President's budget message of last January.

The prediction of the large increase in war costs was given yesterday to a group of the nation's leading business executives by a committee of economists who work for their companies. The economists prepare such a forecast for their chiefs twice a year, after lengthy talks with government officials on the council of economic advisers and in the Treasury Department and other agencies.

The report was presented to members of the Business Council by Ralph Lazarus, president of Federated Department Stores, Inc., who is chairman of the Business Council's committee on the domestic economy.

The council is an organization of some 120 men, most of them the heads of large corporations, who advise the government on policy issues. Lazarus did not spell out the reasons for the expected $5 billion military budget increase other than to label it "for Vietnam escalation." He added the $5 billion figure was "very conservative—the lowest figure we've heard."

He declined to specify which government official the group of economists had talked to or the extent to which the $5 billion figure may have been based on government estimates.

The increase in expected Vietnam war costs, coupled with some other adverse budgetary developments, will bring the budget deficit for the new fiscal year to $15 to $18 billion, the business economists predicted.

The administration's deficit estimate in the January budget was $8.1 billion. Adding $5 billion in expenditures for the war and subtracting $2.5 billion for the lower tax collections expected this year because of lower corporate profits would bring the deficit to more than $15 billion.

If, in addition to this, Congress refused to enact the 6 per cent tax increase that President Johnson has proposed, the deficit would rise to more than $18 billion, the

Pilot Course For Warren

HARRISBURG (AP) — The State Department of Public Instruction announced yesterday that it would introduce pilot programs in fine arts curriculums in schools in 18 counties next year, including the Warren County School District.

Dr. John E. Kosloski, director of the department's Bureau of General and Academic Education, said more than 50 school districts have asked to take part in the program.

Kosloski's bureau started a five-year planning program to develop the curriculums early in 1966. Since then, more than 20 conferences have been held.

Gene C. Wenner, project director, said the program's ultimate goal is to develop "a completely adaptable prototype of a fine arts curriculum for Pennsylvania's secondary schools."

Wenner added that student participation in the model courses next year would be voluntary.

The pilot courses are to be offered in the following schools and districts besides Warren.

Allegheny County—Plum Borough secondary schools, Braddock High School, Catholic School Board of the Pittsburgh Diocese, Churchill Area Schools Clairton High School, McKeesport Area Schools, Moon Schools, Richland High School, Swissvale Area Joint Schools, West Deer Twp. High School; and the Allegheny Valley, Avonworth Union, Bethel Park, Carlisle, Mt. Lebanon, North Hills, Verona, West Jefferson Hills and West Mifflin Area school districts.

Candidate Explains His Actions

County Treasurer Jack McCool, who is seeking the Republican Party nomination for the office of County Register and Recorder released a letter yesterday to again explain action on how he acquired land for himself and processed it through his office.

Three plaintiffs filed complaints of mandamus on Monday of this week stating that he was not a qualified owner or qualified to effect redemption of the land. They also declared that there were no records filed in the office to show that any other party had attempted to redeem the property.

In answering charges McCool said:

"To further try and clear the air of the trumped up" action filed against me, as County Treasurer, on Tuesday, I present the following for your information.

"Original interest in the land under question was acquired by me thru a Deed dated September 25, 1953, and recorded in Warren County on December 28, 1953 in Deed Book 259, page 120. My grantors acquired their interest through deeds given by former owners in most cases as collateral. The descriptions on many of these deeds were incomplete and ambiguous, and as a result curative work was and is still being done on properties covered by this deed, some of which I still have title to, as in the case of the lands in Elk Township. On many others the title to me has been lost, thru a number of different ways, namely tax sales.

"Under the reassessment and reevaluation program for Warren County in 1956 and 57, the two properties in question were listed as "unknown" because the records were not thoroughly searched, and there was no one occupying the property (woodland), where the field men could get additional information. It was not until 1962 or 63 that I could ascertain the location of the properties in question. Because of some, many and varied transactions of my predecessors in title (former owners) there was and still are clouds on the titles to many of these properties. These I have been trying to remove through supplemental deeds from the former owners or their heirs. I have been able to do this with the lands in question only within the past year by obtaining from the estates and owners of outstanding interests by paying additional money to them.

"Another curative method sometimes used is to let the properties be sold for delinquent taxes. This I could not do because, as County Treasurer, I am prohibited by law from obtaining any interest in land through this manner. The "would be" purchasers at the 1964 Treasurer's Sale know this, and were trying to acquire an interest in these and other properties at my expense; and knowing this I redeemed them within the statutory time under the law to protect the interest I have had since 1953.

"When I would not void the redemptions (which are in order) they threatened me with the Mandamus Action that was filed on Tuesday. Again I say, I am not for sale and I cannot be "bought off" by anyone, for anyone regardless of who they are."

Pilgrims Crowd Into Fatima For Pope's Visit

By DENNIS F. REDMONT
FATIMA, Portugal (AP) — On foot and by bus, thousands of pilgrims crowded into Fatima in a steady rain last night for the visit today of Pope Paul V.

The Roman Catholic pontiff will pray for peace at the Basilica of Fatima, marking the place where three child shepherds 50 years ago said they saw the Virgin Mary in a flash of light over a small oak tree.

Busloads of pilgrims and long files of Portuguese women, loads balanced on their shawled heads, moved in the rain toward the basilica.

Other pilgrims still were wending their way through the hills to be on hand when the pontiff, making the fourth trip abroad of his reign, takes part in Mass on this 50th anniversary of the Vision of Fatima.

During the day, the shrine's concrete esplanade, twice the size of Rome's St. Peter's Square, was jammed.

Carnations, orchids and gladioli decorated the papal rostrum, where the red velvet throne of the Pope was in place.

Apparently at the Pope's request, the only surviving witness of those who reported the vision of the Virgin Mary 50 years ago will sit among honored guests, church sources reported.

Sister Lucia, 60, was 10 when she and two companions, now dead, said they saw "a Lady of Light" above a small oak tree on the site that is now the Shrine of Fatima.

Sister Lucia of the Immaculate Heart of Mary, lives at the Carmelite convent of Santa Teresa at Coimbra. She was permitted to break her sheltered convent life to participate in the Pope's visit.

Also on the stand will be the brothers and sisters of Jacinta and Francisco Marto, the other two of the three shepherds who reported the vision. Jacinta and Francisco Marto died of influenza in 1918—a year after the vision.

The McCann auto was partially on Pennsylvania ave. when the bumpers of the two cars struck each other. Patrolman Charles Musante estimated total damage at $225.

Delegates will also be paid mileage of ten cents per circular mile per week. If state employees serve as delegates they are permitted to receive only expenses incurred which are not otherwise paid by the state.

Elementary School chairman for the spelling bee program for Warren County School District was Richard Hiles, principal of Sugar Grove Elementary School. Hiles organized ten matches involving teams fielded by 20 elementary schools. The winners of these contests participated in the Warren County spell-down over WSEE-TV in Erie.

The Beatty Junior High School, Sheffield Junior High School and Tidoute Junior High Schools participated in the secondary school contests.

observers, who often see the muzzle blasts of the enemy guns. But there was a problem.

"We believe the North Vietnamese have buried their mortars 10 feet underground in the DMZ," a Marine spokesman told AP correspondent Peter Arnett. "So you can readily see why it is so difficult to knock them out, it would take a direct hit."

The enemy howitzers are considered to be similarly hidden. Direct hits by enemy shells blew up an ammunition truck, set off an hour-long fire in a stock of white phosphorus shells and knocked down a Marine helicopter as it was taking off from Gio Linh.

There were other casualties, the number undetermined, at Con Thien, seven miles west of Gio Linh. Helicopters made 24 medical evacuation flights from that outpost.

In rocket and mortar attacks launched at Bien Hoa and Phuoc Vinh in early morning darkness, guerrillas had killed six Americans, wounded 100 and destroyed or damaged 25 planes, U.S. headquarters said about 30 other men received minor injuries such as bruises and sprained ankles in sprinting for cover.

Bien Hoa, attacked several times in the past, is a big air base 16 miles northeast of Saigon. The target at Phuoc Vinh was a U.S. Army strip for helicopters, transports and spotter planes.

The attack on Bien Hoa marked the first time the Communists had used 140mm rockets so far south. Normally touched off in groups by an electrical charge, each carries 26 pounds of explosives.

The Russian rockets showed up for the first time in the war in an attack last February on the Da Nang air base.

Jaycees, Labor Say Vote 'Yes' To Amendments

Warren Jaycees adopted a resolution this week urging the adoption of the nine amendments to the state constitution and the state AFL-CIO announced their wholehearted support.

The local Jaycees have purchased bumper stickers and flyers for distribution to the public and will assist the League of Women Voters in distributing "Vote Yes" information at the polls.

Harry Boyer, president of Pennsylvania AFL-CIO, said, "We strongly urge a Yes vote on all nine questions." His announcement followed an endorsement given by 2,173 delegates attending the organization's state convention in Philadelphia during April. It was disclosed that there were no dissenting votes.

Jack Henry, president of the State Employees' Council in the organization, reported that Warren County Central Labor Council was not represented at the convention but at a later meeting gave full support to the issues.

Statewide voting on the amendments is Tuesday, May 16.

Chautauqua Supers OK Issuance of $5 Million in Bonds

MAYVILLE — Authorization for the issuance of $5 million in serial bonds was voted yesterday by the Chautauqua County Board of Supervisors to pay part of the cost of the county building project.

County attorney Seymour Rollman said that $264,000 of local funds which are presently in a capital construction fund, will be used as a down payment for the project.

The building project includes the construction of a five-story office building to be joined to the present court house building which is scheduled to be renovated. The $5 million bond issue will also help finance a second office building to house the County Health Department, the Mental Health Department and the Welfare Department.

The supervisors also accepted low bids for the construction contracts, all of which contain the contingency that federal funds amounting to $250,000 be received for the emergency operations center in the Civil Defense Department. Low bid of $1,895,000 for the general construction was submitted by Hydro Construction Company of Buffalo, N.Y., while Keroach and Jones of Buffalo submitted a low bid of $343,700 for the electrical construction.

Sans Corporation of Jamestown submitted low bids for the plumbing and the heating ventilation and air conditioning with bids of $89,098 and $237,000 respectively.

In other action the board authorized a contract with the Chautauqua Lake Association in the amount of $9,200 for the removal of aquatic weeds from Chautauqua Lake.

Another resolution receiving unanimous approval called for the county to provide up to $75,000 in local costs for a water resources study to be conducted in Allegany, Cattaraugus and Chautauqua counties. The same resolution also nominated several Chautauqua County men to serve on the Regional Water Planning Board. Nominated to the 14 member board were Merle W. Smedburg, superintendent of public utilities of Jamestown; Glenn W. Waite of 310 Homestead st., Falconer, N.Y.; Edmund M. Borowski of Dunkirk, N.Y.; Clarence E. Anderson of RD 1, Kennedy, N.Y.; William A. Taylor, chairman board of public utilities of Jamestown; and Joseph H. Dornberger, 10 Washington ave., Mayville.

County planning director John Luensman told the supervisors that the county planning board has submitted an application to the state health department for a grant to obtain a comprehensive refuse disposal study. He said approximately six months would be required to make the study once state approval would be received.

MARSHFIELD, Wis. (AP) — Twins weighing 21 pounds, 9 ounces—just seven ounces off the American Medical Association record—were born Thursday to Mrs. LaVern Dupee, 42, of rural Arpin.

A girl weighing 10 pounds, 9 ounces, was first to arrive, followed within a minute by a boy weighing 11 pounds. The girl measured 22½ inches, the boy 22 inches. The children were delivered by Caesarean section.

Baby Strangles In Highchair

ERIE, Pa. (AP)—A 13-month-old Erie boy strangled in his highchair yesterday after he apparently slipped through the seat and caught his neck on a strap.

Coroner Merle Wood said the baby, Charles A. Palmer, was placed in the chair by his father who then went down to the basement to work. The father returned to find his son caught in the chair, Wood said.

The baby was dead on arrival at Hamot Hospital.

On Voting Age

ALLENTOWN, Pa. (AP)—U.S. Rep. Fred B. Rooney, D-Bethlehem, said yesterday he has introduced a bill in Congress to lower the voting age to 18. He spoke at a special assembly for 700 Allen High School seniors.

The economists favored the tax increase—as did a number of the corporate executives—but said it should be put into effect in October, rather than in July as the President originally asked.

The delay in raising taxes was seen as desirable because the economy is currently going through a period of softness.

The business economists felt, and the corporate executives generally agreed, that business would start to turn up again by the final quarter of this year, possible earlier.

However, the business economists predicted a somewhat lower total national output than government officials. They predicted that the gross national product for this year would total $778 billion, which would be $9 billion below the government forecast.

Violence Erupts in Hong Kong; Red Papers Denounce British

HONG KONG—Mob violence erupted in Hong Kong again yesterday as Communist newspapers here denounced the British authorities for the action taken by the police against rioters Thursday.

Buses, trucks and cars were burned as crowds of up to 5,000 went on a wild rampage. Many youths shouted quotations from the works of Chinese Communist leader Mao Tse-tung as they threw stones and bottles at the police. Riot squads fired salvos of tear gas shells while clashing with the mobs.

Thursday and yesterday, police fired non-lethal wooden pellets into the rioting crowds. The Communists press asserted rifle shots were fired and described the police action as a "frantic and shameful attack on patriotic Chinese people."

Governor Sir David Trench was singled out for special attack as the "chief criminal" in the most inflammatory articles residents could remember seeing in the Communist press here.

An editorial in one of the two major Communist papers said Sir David bore the responsibility for "fascist violence" and "bloody suppression," allegedly carried out by the police.

It also accused him of executing the "war policy of American imperialists." Peking and local Communist newspapers have protested the use of Hong Kong as a base for U.S. "aggression" in Vietnam.

The editorial demanded that the British release immediately "all patriotic workers and patriotic students" arrested and "punish those responsible for crimes committed and apologize to our patriotic countrymen."

The editorial said that if Sir David did not heed the paper's warning he "must carry the full burden for all serious consequences."

Government officials and specialists in Chinese affairs said there appeared to be a pattern in present developments and a growing campaign of agitation in the Communist press but it was too early to say if it was leading to a particular goal. There has been some uneasiness here as a result of the current situation because of pressures brought to bear on the nearby Portuguese colony of Macao where Chinese Communists recently exacted important concessions from the government.

Unrest here followed a series of labor disputes involving left-wing unions. The rioting grew directly out of a clash between the police and demonstrators at the Hong Kong Plastic Flower Co.

A curfew was imposed throughout the densely populated area surrounding the factory from 9:30 Thursday night until 5 a.m. yesterday and by midnight the situation was relatively quiet. But by mid-morning yesterday crowds began to gather and were soon involved in clashes with the police. Some rioters were armed with iron bars.

During the day about 500 riot police were in action but by evening when the curfew was again imposed the situation became quieter.

Jackson Expects Selected Guard Units to Be Called

(c) N. Y. Times News Service WASHINGTON — Sen. Henry M. Jackson, D-Wash., said yesterday he expected the administration will soon have to call up selected National Guard and reserve units to meet the need for more American forces in South Vietnam.

Jackson, a member of the Senate Armed Services Committee, said he favored such a call-up. He emphasized that he was speaking only for himself and did not know of any plans for a reserve call-up. He said that he thought it was a decision "that can't be postponed for too long."

The administration has persistently said that it does not need to call any reserve units to active duty to meet present force levels. George Christian, White House news secretary, said yesterday he knows of "no pending change in the administration position."

Pentagon officials said that on the basis of the present planned ceiling of about 480,000 troops in Vietnam by the end of 1967, no reserve call-up would be necessary. But they acknowledged that if President Johnson decided to expand American forces much beyond that level "we will have to reconsider the business of reserves."

Jackson said he saw the need for more manpower because of increased Communist pressure in the northern tip of South Vietnam, the decision to put the pacification program under military command, and expectations that more American troops will become involved

SNCC Replaces Carmichael With Rap Brown as Chairman

(c) N. Y. Times News Service ATLANTA — The Student Nonviolent Coordinating Committee announced yesterday that it has replaced Stokely Carmichael, its chairman for a year, with Rap Brown, 23, its Alabama state director.

Carmichael was present when committee's new officers were announced at a press conference at a Negro motor hotel. He occasionally prompted the new chairman.

Brown, tall and slim, with bushy hair and a downward-bending mustache, said the student committee would emphasize "programmatic action" during the next year. Asked whether he would be as publicly prominent as Carmichael has been, he said, "hopefully not."

Carmichael has said privately in recent months that he did not want to serve another term as chairman of the committee. He is said to have cited as the reason an aversion to administrative work and dislike to criticism he had received within the organization.

The new officers were re-elected even in pointing to the death early Friday of a former committee member, Benjamin Brown, who was shot in Jackson, Miss.

Brown, a native of Baton Rouge, La., has been in charge of projects in Alabama that included voter registration, political organization and community development. He attended Southern University in New Orleans, but left in his senior year.

Stanley Wise, 24, the new executive secretary, was born in Charlotte, N.C., and attended Howard University. He has been with the committee several years.

Ralph Featherstone, 27, the new program director, has been a field secretary in Mississippi and Alabama. He taught school in Washington and at one time was an announcer for a Negro radio station in Atlanta. Carmichael, 26, who replaced John Lewis as a chairman last May, said he would remain with the organization, as a field worker. He will no longer be on the Central Committee, the organization's governing body between annual meetings.

Asked whether he would continue to have a prominent public role, he said: "No, no, I'm going back to the fields, where I came from."

The committee field workers have been in closed session here since last weekend. The statement issued yesterday said that the staff "voted that the Student Nonviolent Coordinating Committee is a human rights organization, interested not only in human rights in the United States, but throughout the world."

It added: "We shall seek a strong nationwide black anti-draft program and movement to include high school students, along with college students and other black men of draft age. We see no reason for black men, who are daily murdered physically and mentally in this country, to go and kill yellow people abroad, who have done nothing to us, and are, in fact, victims of the same oppression that our brothers in Vietnam suffer."

The committee said it would stress building "national freedom organizations" in the United States which would develop independent political forces.

U.S., Soviets Fail to Agree On 'A' Ban

(c) N. Y. Times News Service GENEVA — Although delegates have started arriving for the reopening of the Geneva Disarmament Conference next week, the United States and the Soviet Union have still not agreed on the inspection provisions of the proposed ban on the further spread of nuclear weapons.

Information which became available last night provided a less optimistic interpretation of the talk Thursday between William C. Foster and Alexei Roshchin, the American and Soviet representatives. Roshchin left the impression that he had not received his final instructions from Moscow.

A Western source said, however, that nothing developed that foreshadowed another postponement for the resumption of the disarmament conference. He said it still appeared that Roshchin would join Foster in sponsoring the U.S. draft Thursday, the day the conference reconvenes after a seven-week recess.

But, several delegates said they could not accept this optimism.

They interpret the Japan Sea incidents between American and Soviet warships this week as a hardening of the Soviet position on Vietnam. This strengthens their belief that Moscow will not agree to the special treatment the U.S. has proposed for West Germany, Italy and the other non-nuclear members of Euratom—Belgium, The Netherlands and Luxembourg.

A further talk between Foster and Roshchin is expected this weekend.

Menace to Our Future

What is the greatest threat to the recreational values of the Kinzua Dam area in the future? Over use, if we can accept the findings of leading recreational researchers.

In all parts of the nation these specialists are learning that even the finest recreational development can lose its appeal to the recreation-seeking masses when the esthetic values deteriorate. And these esthetic values will deteriorate if the burden of visitors exceeds the ability of the area to reproduce annually the regrowth that maintains this esthetic quality.

Hubert Burke, a recreational researcher formerly located at the Forest Recreation and Wildlife Laboratory at Irvine, in a talk prepared for the 1963 session of the Great Lakes Park Training Institute, emphasized the importance of this problem.

Burke said: "It is at this time that we must give close attention to the enhancement and preservation of esthetic values. Since the recent increase in recreational demand, much has been said and written about natural conditions and their preservation. This is the proper goal; yet this "natural conditions" approach has often led to a dreary cycle of establishment, deterioration and inadequate rehabilitation, especially in situations where there is heavy use.

"A more successful procedure would be to make a careful study of the recreation area and its esthetic values then take such measures as are necessary to preserve, rather than to wait for it to wear out."

Both Burke and Wilbur LaPage, the recreational researcher who replaced Burke as project leader at the laboratory, pointed out, however, that the simplest solution would be the creation of enough recreation units to spread the visitor pressure over greater areas as a means of reducing "useage" loss. In the Kinzua Dam area this hasn't been done. Throughout the coming tourist season tremendous visitor pressure will be exerted on the two primary developments there—Jake's Rocks and Rimrock. The question is "How long will they be able to maintain their esthetic quality under these circumstances?"

There is little question that other recreational areas presently being constructed will relieve some of the pressure when they come into use. But will this relief be enough? Not if we can accept the prediction that by 1976 visitors in the dam area will number as many as five million.

Burke's solution to this dilemma, which should have received more attention than it did at the time it was offered, was the promotion of private development on private lands. While speaking at the training institute, he said, "Full utilization of the multiple resources of the land is of special importance in the Northeast where privately owned forest lands make up the principal reservoir of potential recreation lands."

This is a fact! And unless we can in every way possible promote the development of recreational facilities on privately owned lands we are headed for trouble. Public agencies can't possibly meet the overall demand, and if the demand exceeds the ability of our present and future areas to maintain their esthetic appeal they will soon become second-rate attractions.

Second-rate attractions contribute little to the economic welfare of any community. They will contribute even less to the overall esthetic enjoyment the visitor has a right to expect while visiting an area that is publicized as an outdoor wonderland—the Kinzua Dam Recreational Complex.

The Chinese ICBM

WASHINGTON—We now know, at a minimum, the CLAIMED scheduling of Chinese nuclear missiles with sufficient range to reach targets in the United States. In the summer of 1965 the Chinese Communists told their North Vietnamese comrades that they would have a few such missiles at the end of seven years—at some time in 1972, in fact.

The evidence that this Chinese claim was made in Hanoi is contained in one of the captured, very high-level North Vietnamese documents which have already been discussed at length in this space. In the document in question the chairman of the North Vietnamese Communist Party's reunification commission, Gen. Nguyen Van Vinh, is quoted as saying that

Peking had urged Hanoi to fight on "until a few years from now, and, even worse, seven years from now."

The purpose of this war of seven years was described as "boggling down the enemy" until China could complete preparations to "launch a strong, all-out and rapid offensive, using all types of weapons and heading no borders." It does not need a very analytical man to read the ominous meaning of the phrase "all types of weapons."

There is no doubt in the U.S. government that the Chinese Communists did in fact claim in Hanoi that they would be ready to attack the United States with intercontinental missiles in or about 1972. Secretary of Defense Robert S. McNamara reportedly believes that the Chinese claim has no solid foundation. But many Pentagon analysts consider the Chinese might well be ready with "a few ICBMs" with nuclear warheads by the date named.

These facts in turn lend a somber, added importance to the debate inside the administration, and between the administration and Congress, about construction and deployment of a costly defensive network of anti-missile missiles.

Secretary McNamara is dead set against the immensely expensive "full deployment" of ABMs, as these weapons are called, that would be needed for a defense against Soviet nuclear attack. He has never excluded what is described in Pentagon jargon as the "thin deployment," which would provide a defense against future Chinese attack.

However, McNamara would also like to defer the decision on the "thin deployment." Partly this is because of the price tag—somewhere between $10 billion and $20 billion when the job is done—and the desirability of putting off other defense spending until the corner is turned in Vietnam. And partly this is because McNamara thinks no decision should be taken until the opening of the talks about ABM deployment, to which the Soviets have already agreed.

There are several things to be said about this. In the first place, a good many of the wiser Soviet specialists think that our bargaining position in these promised but long-deferred talks will actually be much improved if we have already begun our ABM deployment, as the Soviets have most conspicuously done. One side, making no effort at all, is always in a weak position asking another side to limit an effort already launched.

In the second and much more important place, the original American aim is obviously unattainable and is probably most unwise as well. The original aim was to "halt the arms race" by a Soviet-American agreement binding both sides to refrain from any kind of ABM deployment.

As Premier Alexei Kosygin made all too clear in London, the Soviets are all but obsessive about Mao Tse-tung's China. Even if there is a great change in China, as seems possible eventually, the Soviets are highly unlikely to be ready to leave that particular flank quite nakedly exposed. And to do devastating damage in the Soviet Union, the Chinese would need fewer missiles with shorter ranges than they would need to inflict grave harm on the United States.

Hence, the original American aim is unattainable simply because no imaginable argument is likely to deflect the Soviets from the kind of "thin deployment" of ABMs that would give them protection against China.

State's 'Junior Colleges'

HARRISBURG — A major impasse is developing over who will control the development of "junior colleges" in Pennsylvania.

Depending on where you sit, it is a case of whether Pennsylvania State University will be permitted to roll majestically along, creating and expanding its "campus centers"; or whether—as Frank N. Hawkins, chairman of the State Council of Higher Education, puts it—"we're going to have continuing conflicts and costly duplications if the board is not given authority to control expansion."

For nearly two decades, Penn State has developed the community college field pretty much by itself. Although using the Penn State label, and all that this implies in terms of college and university level training, some of the "extension centers" conduct what are called—to use the university's own publicity euphemism—"occupationally oriented two year programs". In plain language, courses with that label don't count toward a college degree.

With rare exceptions, the problem is aired in a back-handed way.

In Harrisburg, the discussion takes the shape of a large publicity flurry over the news that the Harrisburg Area Community College has been accredited by Middle States, which, in college circles, is like getting the Good Housekeeping seal of approval. Five miles down the Susquehanna, meanwhile, Penn State's campus center is plodding along with fewer than 100 students.

Conversely, in Berks County, where the air is murky with the community college-campus center debate, PSU has announced the addition of "more than 100 courses . . . for the fall of 1968" and promises that these credits will be transferable to other colleges.

But from Easton, the dissent is deafening. Penn State, says Dr. Ralph D. Richardson, president of Northampton County Community College, "is attempting to sow the seeds of suspicion and doubt about the worth of community colleges."

And, last week, across the 35-foot round table in the Senate's ornate hearing room, Erie Senator William G. Sesler complained to Penn State's president, Dr. Eric A. Walker, that PSU proposes new education programs "without consultation with anyone."

Not so, said Dr. Walker. The university has "appraised the Board of the programs, but not asked for approval."

Penn State allocations for the campus centers are not clear. But the overall request for Penn State—not counting classified allocations such as $97,500 for Mushroom Research—is $44,332,966, up $8.5 million from last year, and up more than $16 million from the $28,197,700 appropriation just two years ago.

The proposed state allocation for all locally-sponsored community colleges is $10,223,116. For his Council, and for the State Board of Education on which he also sits, Chairman Hawkins is asking the Legislature for "broad powers to approve what type of institutions to be established."

Dr. Otis C. McCreery, the Board chairman, meanwhile, pours balm on the issue by noting that such authority "would not be pointed at Pennsylvania State University." Penn State runs only 19 campus centers, while 15 others are sponsored by Temple, Indiana, Pittsburgh, Edinboro, Slippery Rock and Clarion.

By Tuesday of this week, Sen. Sesler—who has been conducting minority hearings into higher education—seemed on the verge of exasperation.

"There seems to be a lack of cooperation, a lack of liaison, and a lack of coordination between the Commissioner for Higher Education, the Department of Public Instruction and Penn State University," said Sesler. "Unless the various educational elements . . . can agree on the allocation of responsibilities and duties, we will have a master plan for higher education."

As for our aim's wisdom, it seems obvious that this country should also begin a "thin deployment" with no further delay simply because of what we now know the Chinese said to the North Vietnamese.

In Moscow, in short, the American negotiating position really ought to be that this country and the Soviet Union will save money and serve the interests of peace if both content themselves with "thin deployment" of agreed kinds.

Enthusiastic Over Fishing

WASHINGTON — Members of the Soviet Embassy staff, seized with a sudden enthusiasm for fishing, would like to try their luck in capitalist streams. The question now awaiting Soviet-American agreement is whether they will go after salt-water fish or fresh-water fish and how much it will cost.

Diplomatic negotiations on this problem began after the Russians purchased an old hotel on a tributary flowing into the Chesapeake Bay which they are patching up for use as a recreation center.

The tributary is better known for its stinging nettles than for its fish, but the Russians are determined to go fishing anyway.

Anxious to obey the law, they applied to the Maryland authorities for fishing licenses and were informed that no licenses are required for salt-water fishing.

Not wanting to be confined to their nettle-infested tributary, the Russians also asked about fresh-water fishing, which requires a license of $1 for a Marylander, $10 for anyone out of state. Asked how many licenses it would need, the Soviet Embassy sent a list of eighty-five names.

This involved $850 in state revenue, and the Department of Game and Inland Fish, typically bureaucratic, referred the problem to Maryland's aggressive new attorney general, Bill Burch. He consulted the statutes, but could find no legal grounds for providing Russian diplomats with free fishing licenses.

Mindful of LBJ's policy of building bridges with the East, Burch suggested a diplomatic solution. The law allows 20 free fishing licenses for the President of the United States, also 20 free licenses for each of the state governors.

He suggested that the Russian Embassy ask the President for his quota of 20 licenses, since LBJ is the godfather of Soviet-American understanding. Then the governors of New York, New Jersey and a couple of other states might contribute 20 licenses each. This would take care of enough courtesy licenses.

By the time this was done, however, the fishing season would be over, or half the Soviet staff would be back in Moscow on summer vacation.

Despite the fact that politics is supposed to be thicker than blood in a Roosevelt, only one member of FDR's large family is still actively running for office. He is Elliott Roosevelt, who is running for reelection as mayor of Miami Beach next week.

Perhaps because the Roosevelt name still counts for a lot in Washington, the affable, crew-cut mayor has wrangled more benefits out of the federal government in two years than Miami Beach had received for the past 50 years.

Some federal officials have complained privately that Miami Beach, under Elliott, has been treated more like a depressed area than the nation's No. 1 resort city. At any rate, in the past two years he has obtained a staggering $3,350,000 in government grants to improve Miami Beach.

Apparently Elliott considers this only the beginning. He is now badgering the federal government to help foot the bill for filling in Pelican Island, which would add another 130 acres to Miami Beach for an 18-hole championship golf course.

Roosevelt has also made repeated trips to Washington to persuade both the Democratic and Republican parties to bring their national conventions to Miami Beach. He has promised a hotel for each delegation, "sunshine twins" to greet and assist each delegation, even babysitting service for mothers who want to bring their children. Exulted Roosevelt's effervescent wife Patty: "We can make them think they have died and gone to heaven."

Elliott Roosevelt is the hero of Miami Beach's senior citizens who still remember the late FDR.

Four candidates are running against him in the elections next week.

Rep. John R. Rarick, the Congressman who defeated Jimmy Morrison to represent the Strawberry Capital of Louisiana, has now made at least one contribution to Congressional debate, and has laid an egg.

Rarick defeated Morrison, one of the colorful standbys of the Old South, with a rip-roaring racist campaign because Jimmy voted once for civil rights.

The other day Rarick stood up on the House floor and denounced "Shriver's Peace Corps" for paying the expenses of "vacationing idealists" in Tanzania, who "brawled in bars and clubs and appeared in short-shorts or tight trousers, growing long beards."

"Little wonder we are losing friends in Africa," proclaimed the new Congressman from Louisiana. And he inserted a clipping in the Congressional Record quoting J. Kasubi, a member of the Tanzanian National Assembly.

What the Congressman from the Strawberry Capital of Louisiana failed to do, however, was check his facts. The facts are:

First, that Shriver has not been head of the Peace Corps for more than a year.

Second, J. Kasubi is the leading Communist in the Tanzanian parliament, bent on trying to undermine the prestige of the United States.

Third, the 297 members of the Peace Corps in Tanzania are doing such a good job that they are winning Tanzania away from its pro-communist status. This is why Kasubi is so sore, and anxious to castigate the Peace Corps.

The new Congressman from Louisiana should take a look at the enlightening book of William Attwood, our ex-ambassador to Guinea and to Kenya, "The Red and the Blacks," in which Attwood tells of the progress we have made in Africa, in part through the Peace Corps. Attwood has now retired from diplomacy and is editor of Look magazine, so can write as an impartial observer.

Doc Endangers the 'Cop-Out'

WASHINGTON — Dr. Timothy Leary, the guru of psychedelia, was playing with fire the other night when he urged a national television audience to go on drugs and "cop out."

"Too many people have already 'copped out.' If everybody does it, society is going to become even more of a nuisance than it is now. The essential point about the 'cop-out,' which Dr. Leary falls to grasp, is that it can be enjoyed only by an elite minority. Turning it into an exercise for the masses takes all of the pleasure out of it."

What is a "cop-out"? The term is new, but the institution is older than Bertrand Russell. Somebody perspicacious looks at the world around him, concludes that it is absurd and resigns from society and spends his days contending with his spiritual innards.

In its contemporary form, the "cop-out" demands certain ritual acts—wearing guru suits and hair, attending "be-ins," making a to-do about oriental philosophy, not paying the rent, using marijuana, talking about universal love, saying "to hell with the government," and so forth.

Obviously it is fun. But when everybody begins to "cop out," it becomes a trial. Consider the case of a married couple whom we shall call, pseudonymously, Mr. and Mrs. Bogue. As utter little middle-class as they come, the Bogues were alarmed at first when their son and daughter, both in college, decided to "cop out," which they did by dropping out of college and moving to the Haight-Ashbury district of San Francisco to smoke

"pot," say no to the rat race and love mankind.

The parental Bogues, who were not so middle-class that they didn't recognize a good thing when they saw it, decided that they too would "cop out."

Mr. Bogue quit his job, stopped paying the mortgage and began wearing overalls in public. Mrs. Bogue became fond of LSD, stopped bathing, took up the guitar and began scoring Persian love ballads with an eye-melting the coffee-house scene.

Grandmother Bogue, after some resistance, discovered she had a knack for turning out hulkus and, protesting that she was too old to take up smoking, decided to go on bourbon whisky.

Eventually, of course, the elder Bogues three were placed penniless on the sidewalk and turned up in Haight-Ashbury asking their "copped-out" youngsters to find them sleeping and eating space in their pad. They are still there, but the younger Bogues have found that a great deal of juice has gone out of their "cop-out."

"It's ridiculous being copped-out if you're still going to have your parents and grandmother sitting around the pad with you," young Roy Bogue concedes. "Don't get me wrong," says young Dora Bogue, "I love my mother almost as much as I love mankind, but frankly it's a little embarrassing to have a woman of 47 lying around the pad trying to sing Persian love songs, especially when our friends drop in."

"What I mind most of all," says Roy, "is having grandma always trying to hit up the other kids for six bucks to buy a bottle of bourbon."

The Bogue case is not acute, of course, but it illustrates how desperate matters could become if everybody took Doctor Leary's advice and produced a universal "cop-out." In this case, a "cop-out" by the petroleum industry would leave them without gasoline for their motorcycle, a "cop-out" of the "pot" and LSD merchants would leave them with no way of turning on, and a "cop-out" by government and establishmentarian society would leave them with nothing to be "copped-out" from. There would be no alternative but for them to cop back in again.

Doctor Leary and the hippies are on very dangerous ground in preaching the universal "cop-out" as the new creed of human salvation. For the "cop-out" to be of any value at all, it must be restricted to the few, as it always has been in the past.

Everybody has had in his family an Uncle Floyd who "copped out" old-style and lived happily ever after. There was no nonsense from Uncle Floyd about guru suits or oriental philosophy.

Uncle Floyd simply awoke one morning, stared at the ceiling, perceived that he had spent a lifetime on a treadmill and went back to sleep. He never went to work again. Often, he never even left the house again. He spent his days sleeping until 2 p.m. and reading history until 4 o'clock in the morning.

Uncle Floyd didn't have to talk about "copping out." He could do it because practically nobody else had "copped out," which meant that somebody else in the family would have to take him in, feed him and keep him in cigarettes rather than let the world know the family had a "cop-out" on its hands.

This was sensible "copping out." It was "copping out" with a purpose. Doctor Leary, on the other hand, seems to be one of those do-gooders who will end up ruining the "cop-out" for the few people really qualified to enjoy it. The guru should re-examine his message.

ART BUCHWALD

Hey, There! You . . .

WASHINGTON — Pacific Airlines has been waging a very unusual advertising campaign pointing out the fears people have about flying. With such attention getters as "Hey, there! You with the sweat in your palms," security blankets for the passengers and painting their airplanes to look like railroad locomotives, Pacific hopes to attract passengers who don't like to fly. It's a very dangerous campaign that Pacific is waging, but if it succeeds other industries might decide to try the same approach.

The advertising agencies are watching the Pacific advertisements with interest and already have their own ads on the drawing boards. For example, the automobile people may get into adverse advertising with this kind of ad.

"Hey, there! You with the beer can in your hand. Have you ever thought if you took your Rake X-321 out tonight you might ram it into a tree?" "Sure you're afraid to drive with all those nuts on the highways and you certainly have good reason. First of all, you're not even certain if your car is safe or not, and then you don't know if anyone else's car is safe. Frankly, the way they're building the roads these days you'd probably be better off staying in the house."

"But this shouldn't prevent you from buying a Rake X-321. For one thing it's fast—too damn fast if you ask us—and this can really scare you if you lose control. But power isn't the only thing you have to fear in a Rake X-321. It skids like mad around a turn and it's top-heavy to boot. Matter of fact, the only safety feature we have on the car is a St. Christopher medal."

"So why not go out and see your Rake dealer today?" Then there are the bathroom fixtures advertising people.

"Hey, there! You with the shampoo in your eyes. Has it ever occurred to you that more people have accidents in bathrooms than anywhere else in the house? Sure it's kind of scary—particularly when you lose the soap in the bottom of the tub or when you accidentally walk through the glass door of a shower. But what are you going to do?"

"Gurgling plumbing fixtures will not pretend to you that it's safe to take a bath. We feel the more facts you know about getting into a tub the less anxious you'll be. The odds of getting in and out of a bath without hurting yourself are about 4 to 1, which are not bad considering there is so little to hold onto when you're sitting down. Then there's always the chance of getting scalded if you turn the wrong tap. You say it will never happen? You should see some of our customers."

"Gurgling doesn't have the answer to accidents in the bathroom. All we can do is provide the equipment to make the accidents possible. Write for our free booklet, 'The Bathroom Is Not Safe At Any Speed.'"

And then there are the drug people.

"Hey, there! You with the pain in your tummy. I guess you've read that Litmus stomach powders are safe. Well don't let anybody kid you. If you take the wrong dose you could be sick for two days. Litmus has an active coating ingredient that works twice as fast as any other stomach powder, which could cause a lot of complications. The powders come wrapped individually in plastic, and if you don't pull the flap according to instructions, you'll cut your finger."

"Many people are afraid to take Litmus stomach powders. And they're not dumb people either."

"But we would rather you know in advance what you're getting into. Tests show bicarbonate is as good as Litmus and it only costs half the price."

And finally there are the cigarette advertisers.

"Hey, there! You with that terrible cough in your throat . . ."

Garrison Links Jack Ruby With Oswald and Clay Shaw

NEW ORLEANS, La. (AP) — Dist. Atty. Jim Garrison said yesterday Jack Ruby's unpublished telephone number appears in code in address books belonging to Lee Harvey Oswald and Clay L. Shaw.

Garrison told Criminal Dist. Court his investigators had broken a telephone number code used by both Oswald and Shaw, a retired New Orleans executive accused of conspiring to murder President John F. Kennedy.

The district attorney's disclosure runs counter to the Warren Commission report which found no indication of any link between Oswald and Ruby. Oswald was identified in the report as Kennedy's assassin. Ruby shot and killed Oswald at the Dallas Police Station two days after Kennedy's death Nov. 22, 1963.

Garrison's statement came in answer to motions by Shaw's attorneys asking the return of Shaw's address book, seized March 1 with five cartons of materials from Shaw's hands, some French Quarter home.

The New Orleans district attorney has charged that Oswald,

Shaw and the late David W. Perry conspired here in September 1963 to kill President Kennedy.

Garrison said Shaw's address book "contains a unique address which exists also in the address book of Lee Harvey Oswald, as printed in the Warren Commission (exhibits) Volume XVI, Page 58."

He said both notebooks contained the same Dallas post office reference: "P.O. Box 19, 106."

"What makes even more significant this interesting concurrence of address is the fact that in 1963 there existed no such post office box number in Dallas," Garrison said.

"The fact is that P.O. 19, 106 has been found to be a coded description of an unpublished phone number in Dallas, Tex., in 1963," the district attorney said. "The code involved is one which is used in Oswald's notebook quite systematically, apparently for the purpose of concealing phone numbers he regarded as sensitive."

FAA Orders New Safety Measures at Airports

(c) N. Y. Times News Service

WASHINGTON—The Federal Aviation Administration has ordered immediate and long-range measures at its airport towers and traffic control centers to "maintain and improve air safety."

"These actions are mandatory if we are to keep in step with accelerated flight operations," Gen. William F. McKee, F.A.A. administrator, told his five regional directors at a meeting on Wednesday.

One immediate step will cut back the administrative duties of controllers, whose primary job is to direct the flow of air traffic. Others will liberalize overtime and standby pay practices, guarantee the granting of at least two consecutive weeks of earned leave a year and make holiday and pre-holiday duty assignments more equitable. Supervisors were also ordered to "match people to traffic" and not artificially to adjust working shifts to reduce costs of night differential, Sunday or holiday pay.

The so-called long-range actions include immediate recruiting and accelerated training of new controllers, who can now be hired at a higher pay level than before.

The F.A.A. did not publicly announce the "mandatory actions," it said yesterday, because they were considered "a purely internal matter." But it did publish a special edition of "Intercom," an employee bulletin, to inform its 43,000 employees of the new orders.

The regional directors, meeting was held a week or 10 days earlier than originally scheduled to inform them of the orders.

Reports No Evidence Kremlin Ordered Collisions at Sea

By LEWIS GULICK

WASHINGTON (AP) — The State Department reported no evidence yesterday that the Kremlin deliberately ordered destroyer collisions to worsen U.S.-Soviet relations or warn against American actions in Vietnam.

With this public assessment the Johnson administration sought to calm international waters troubled by the past two days' naval encounters in the Sea of Japan.

State Department press officer Robert J. McCloskey said no official reply has come from Moscow yet to the stern U.S. protests over the two brushings between the U.S. destroyer Walker and Soviet destroyers shadowing the U.S. naval maneuvers.

"The harassments and the collisions are serious matters," the State Department spokesman said.

But he added: "We have no evidence that the incidents reflect any deliberate intention to worsen U.S.-Soviet relations or that they are related in any way to the situation in Vietnam."

"We trust that we have seen the last of these incidents."

The Defense Department reported that the American anti-submarine exercises continued yesterday in the Sea of Japan with at least one Soviet warship observing from a distance but there were no new harassment efforts.

A Pentagon spokesman said the maneuvers will continue for a few days before the force of three destroyers and the aircraft carrier Hornet returns to port at Sasebo, Japan.

Answering a question, the Navy disclosed the Thursday collision left a 6-inch hole 10 feet above the waterline on the Walker's starboard bow.

The government-run Moscow radio meanwhile has disputed the U.S. charge, contending the American ships were on dangerous maneuvers which caused the collisions.

Community Meeting At Russell

A community action meeting will be held at 8 p.m. Thursday May 18, at 8 p.m. at the Russell fire hall.

Sponsored by the Warren-Forest County Economic Opportunity Council, the session will include discussion of the possibility of using the old Russell Elementary School building as a low cost housing facility for the elderly.

EOC officials stated if community interest at the meeting is great enough, the necessary organizational procedures will be outlined to bring such a project into reality.

The structure has rendered much service to the area in the past but progress dictated it can no longer serve its originally designed function. This does not preclude the community taking a serious look into putting the building back into service for the Russell area people again.

Bliss Says GOP Can Win In '68 If . . .

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — The Republican party will have enough votes to win the presidency next year if it can carry the 25 states which now have GOP governors, Ray C. Bliss, said yesterday.

The Republican national chairman said, however, "I'm not counting on that. There's still a lot of hard work to do."

Bliss, accompanied by Rep. Bob Wilson, R-Calif., made the remarks at a news conference before a fund-raising luncheon for the party's 1968 congressional candidates.

Wilson said he felt the GOP has a good chance of winning control of the House of Representatives next year. The funds now being collected, he said, are being placed in a special fund for 80 key congressional districts now held by Democrats.

He said the 80 districts in which the money will be spent will not be picked until next year, after the candidates have been chosen.

Rail Management and Labor Clash Over All Key Points

By JOE HALL

WASHINGTON (AP) — Management and labor spokesmen clashed on every key point yesterday in testifying before the Senate labor subcommittee on the railroad shopcraft dispute.

On the issue of whether to go along with President Johnson's proposal for averting a threatened nationwide rail tieup, these were the opposing views:

—J. E. Wolfe, long-time top railroad negotiator in labor disputes, said there appears to be no feasible alternative and that industry would accept it.

—G. E. Leighty, chairman of the Railway Labor Executive Association, declared the administration bill is grossly unfair because he said it rewards the corporations and punishes the working man.

Leighty echoed the position taken Thursday by Michael Fox, president of the AFL-CIO Railway Employees Department, who assailed Johnson's plan as a long step toward a police state.

The President's proposal would put off the threatened strike for another 90 days, during which there would be intensive mediation under a new five-member board. But, if no voluntary settlement could be reached in that time, the board's recommendations would go into effect for a period not extending beyond Jan. 1, 1969.

Leighty said Johnson's plan clearly is compulsory arbitration, which he described as utterly one-sided and unfair when forced on the employees of profit-making companies.

Wolfe asserted there is nothing evil about arbitration.

"It is the American way to settle a dispute," he said.

Leighty said the resolution denies the employees "their democratic right to strike" and forces them to take lower wages than they could win by exerting their own economic strength.

The industry spokesman, Wolfe, said a walkout would point a shotgun at the carriers because they would be losing $12 million a day, half of this in jobless payments to the strikers themselves.

Leighty said that if Congress insists on passing legislation, Mamie Says Ike Is 'Much Better'

WASHINGTON (AP) — Mrs. Dwight D. Eisenhower, returning to the White House as a luncheon guest yesterday, reported her husband was feeling "much better this morning" and looking forward to solid food.

"Yesterday (Thursday) he had some soup, and he said he never thought water would taste so good," she said.

This was the report the former first lady gave to the present first lady, Mrs. Lyndon B. Johnson, while photographers took their picture.

Eisenhower entered Walter Reed Army Hospital last Saturday night with a stomach ailment, and still is recuperating there.

Mrs. Eisenhower was a special guest at the traditional luncheon the first lady gives each year in honor of the Senate ladies Red Cross group.

Some 100 women, including the wives of 12 Cabinet members, and the wives of the senators, were guests at the luncheon in the state dining room.

Heilman to Attend Moose Enrollment

Director of the enrollment department of Supreme Lodge, Loyal Order of Moose, Herbert W. Heilman will attend special class enrollment ceremonies tonight at the local club.

Heilman, past governor of Batavia, Ill. Lodge 682 has held his present position in the organization since 1957.

The degree team from Niagara Falls, N.Y. will perform the ritual of enrollment.

the only way to have it fall fairly on both parties is to provide for federal seizure of the lines. Wolfe said seizure would settle absolutely nothing, accomplish nothing, but it would punish the industry.

The union spokesman said that if Congress will permit the strike now set for June 19 to go ahead, labor will cooperate fully in developing a practical program to move all essential items, including war materials.

Wolfe said such a plan would never work, that it would bankrupt his industry, that it would mean a government enforcement officer in every yard, on every train.

Members of the Senate subcommittee, and also of the House Commerce Committee, which is considering similar legislation, have voiced unhappiness at having the dispute dumped in their laps.

Several of them have said during the week of hearings that they agree with labor's view that the administration proposal is weighted on industry's side.

But administration supporters backing the proposal assert that it will gain in strength, and probably be passed with little or no change, as the new strike deadline nears next month.

Ky Makes It Official He's Running For Office

By BARRY KRAMER

SAIGON (AP) — Premier Nguyen Cao Ky made it official yesterday—he intends to run for the presidency of South Vietnam in the national election Sept. 1. But his most powerful potential military opponent, Chief of State Nguyen Van Thieu, said he still may be a candidate to head up the civilian successor to the military government.

In making public announcement of his intentions during a trip to Dalat, a mountain resort 150 miles northeast of Saigon, Ky said he would step aside if Thieu decided to run.

"I will never oppose him," Ky said. A few hours later, Thieu's office issued a statement saying Thieu "is still considering running and is still a possible candidate." The statement quoted Thieu as saying, "I have no right to agree or not to agree with the candidacy of Gen. Ky."

Negotiators 'Tough' at Kennedy Round Session

By CARL HARTMAN

GENEVA (AP) — Kennedy Round talks moved into their final phase yesterday with some tough talk from negotiators but widespread hope that agreement would be reached on broad cuts in customs duties and the creation of an international food-aid program.

Tomorrow is the deadline set for an accord.

Robert Winters, Canadian trade minister, said in an interview: "I think you will find there will be lots of cuts of 50 per cent — it will move the whole world ahead."

The reductions, he added, would also make it easier for Britain to join the Common Market.

U.S. negotiators were busy, mostly on talks with representatives of the Common Market — their chief adversaries and bargaining partners in the Kennedy Round. The Americans made no official comment, but they were clearly satisfied with the accord on a deadline and were hoping to see it met.

The Americans were looking forward to creation of the food-aid program. They hope to sell for hard cash some of the million tons of food the Common Market is expected to buy as its share of the deal.

Some gloom was being spread from the Common Market camp. Jean Rey, the chief negotiator, returned Thursday from a two-day session with his boss.

es — Cabinet ministers representing France, West Germany, Italy, The Netherlands, Belgium and Luxembourg.

Some national spokesmen in Brussels said he already had offered more than he was strictly entitled to. But the praise of his work that accompanied such statements indicated they were intended more as a bargaining stand than as criticism.

There were reports that he had brought back with him threats that some Common Market offers of tariff reductions would be withdrawn unless American offers were improved. If such threats are carried out, they could lead to a chain reaction of withdrawals that would reduce the extent of the eventual agreement.

One of the biggest issues remaining — in addition to the size of the wheat aid program — is how much European chemical tariffs should be cut before American selling price is repealed and how much afterwards.

The Americans want the biggest cuts first, the Europeans — wary of what Congress may or may not do — want to hold back.

OBSERVATIONS . . . by Bob Walsh

MENTAL HEALTH PROGRAM

One of the controversial subjects discussed by Warren County Commissioners in recent months has been the Mental Health and Mental Retardation Act of 1966. This law requires Warren county to join with Venango, Forest and Clarion counties in the provision of mental health facilities, and to have our plans ready by next January. These plans then must be approved by July of next year.

If we do not cooperate the state will establish the program and will charge us 25 per cent of the cost. If we act in time, our share will be only ten per cent.

The first step is up to the Warren County Commissioners who name a committee which will contact the other counties. This will be known as a catchment, and its eventual organizational arrangement will consist of a board of professional and lay people representing all counties, who in turn will name a team consisting of a psychologist, psychiatrist, and a social worker. This staff will be enlarged as the demand grows.

The commissioners have named a committee of four, Robert Kinney, Warren General Hospital administrator; James Cable, of the school district; and D. H. Lay, county commissioner. However, there apparently is some confusion about their appointment and there has not been a meeting.

The mental health program is opposed by a few on three basic points:

It will be expensive, they claim. There are not enough professional people available to staff the service. The Warren State Hospital can do it.

I will attempt to clarify the issue so that these people will be encouraged to lend their support to the needed service.

THE PRICE

This will not require the large amount of local money that some people fear because all that is involved is the amount not paid by the patients. This is not a program for the indigent. Most patients will be able to pay their bills, or will have hospitalization which will cover all or a major part of the cost.

In addition to these payments, the state will pay the full deficit for inpatient care up to sixty days, and partial payment of the deficit up to 120 days. We would not be paying very much at ten per cent of the net deficit.

HELP SHORTAGE?

It is argued that we should not attempt to provide this help for the mentally ill because there are not enough psychiatrists, psychologists, and social workers. In that case we could not have one until personnel could be found. But we can prepare our plans, appoint a board and find an administrator. The cost to four counties would not be very great during the preliminary period, and we would not attempt a complete service at the start.

We cannot be penalized the extra fifteen per cent by the state if help is not available. If the state can find personnel to do it for us we can obtain the same personnel.

We also are told that we might receive

STATE HOSPITAL?

Those opposing the program suggest that the Warren State Hospital can do it for us. This is not very logical. We are only one of many counties served by the State Hospital and cannot expect preferential treatment.

The purpose of this program is to prevent mental problems or to act in early stages. This kind of short-term, inpatient work is not done at the Warren State Hospital, which is not programmed to provide it.

What we want is treatment away from the institution so that people will be encouraged to seek short-term care, out-patient, and part-time help. We must have social workers, policemen, the clergy, teachers, and all who come in contact with people in trouble, cooperating and trained to recognize early symptoms. Thus we can help people in early stages before they become institutional cases.

A person's mind certainly is as valuable as his appendix. If we can afford to provide adequate care for all physical ills we can afford to establish preventive steps which will assure full and rich lives for those threatened with mental and nervous breakdowns, of which there could be as many as 4,500 in Warren county alone.

BOB WALSH, former editor of the Warren County Observer, is a Republican candidate for Warren County Commissioner. (No 4 on the ballot.)

IS THIS FOR REAL . . .

By Fr. Mark S. Roueche
Warren State Hospital
Catholic Chaplain

The Month of May, with its renewal of all of the spring processes, causes us to think of the beauty of nature and the utter reality of the things that are living around us. There is no artificiality about birds building nests or roses on a bush and they are accepted by us for what they are—things that lend beauty to our daily lives. It is a good time to reflect on whether we are doing the same for others or are merely putting up a good front.

Today we have a good deal of artificiality around us that tends to make us artificial. Scientifically, we have progressed a great deal. We have artificial rubber for our cars—artificial trees for Christmas, artificial flowers for decorations—and today they are even talking about artificial hearts. Sometimes, it is fairly evident that we may be well ahead of medical science in that department.

When we meet people, we have stereotyped greetings and artificial smiles. We are not really too concerned about another's health or welfare—but we very matter of factly ask about them. All in all, when it comes to a choice, most of us prefer the real thing. We can't spend our lives in some kind of imaginary dream world and expect to do anyone any good—from God to ourselves.

As a result of the artificial world we have created, we tend to establish some kind of artificial association with God. When we pray, we turn on that little recorder in the brain and play back some well known prayer without too much attention, devotion, or effort. There is no heart in it. When we think about church, we feel that it is some kind of obligation or duty to fulfill—or what will others think? Isn't this an artificial way of thanking God and recognizing Him for what He really is? Sometimes, the way we perform our religious activities, one would think we were on our way to the Internal Revenue office to have our tax form checked.

There seems to be a gaping void of emptiness between our believing minds and our supposedly loving hearts—insulated in some way so that the spark of Faith can't leap the gap. It really boils down to looking at God, the world around us and ourselves—not through artificial glasses—but through the eyes of reality—which must express Faith and Hope and Love.

Perhaps this is why there is so much unrest in the world around us—whether it is in Vietnam, or Civil rights or the revolt of youth against society—because we have presented them with an unreal world to live in and they won't accept it. I don't think God will either.

May 2, 1967

TO THE VOTERS OF WARREN COUNTY:

I have seen in the news that Blain Mead is a candidate for re-election as County Commissioner of Warren County.

I would like to express my feelings and knowledge of the ability of Mr. Mead.

I have known Blain Mead and worked with him through our State Association of County Commissioners and have seen him in action. He is a man to see things through and get them done. He is very interested in all phases of County Government.

Mr. Mead has been very active in our State Association, having served as 2nd Vice President, 1st Vice President, and then as President. These were very successful years under his guidance. Since then he has served on the Executive Board, which is presently serving on the Legislative Committee which is very important to all Local Governments. With this experience he is well qualified to serve as County Commissioner of your County and certainly has the interest of the tax-payers at heart.

Very truly yours,

COMMISSIONERS OF SCHUYLKILL COUNTY
POTTSVILLE, PENNSYLVANIA

TO THE VOTERS OF WARREN COUNTY, PENNSYLVANIA

It was with great satisfaction that I learned your incumbent County Commissioner, Blain M. Mead, was a Candidate for reelection this year.

Blain and I became very close friends in 1956, where we both began as Commissioners and met at the Convention of The Pennsylvania State Association of County Commissioners.

We have served on numerous committees together and I was honored to work for his election to Vice President of the Association and subsequently his election to President.

Blain has done an outstanding job in any position he has filled in our Association and I speak with knowledge, as I served with him.

When President, I was a Member of his Executive Committee and was Chairman of his Auditing Committee.

Since, serving with distinction as President, he has been very active. He was Chairman of the Executive Committee last year and is now serving on the Legislative Committee. It is our hope that he will continue to be active, as we need his valuable advice and knowledge.

I am now Vice President of the State Association and hope to be elected President at our 1967 Convention in August and trust that Blain M. Mead, will be at my side as he has been in the past.

Respectfully yours,

TO WHOM IT MAY CONCERN:

During the years which I have worked with him, Blain Mead has shown a remarkable knowledge of County Government. He has always been a consistent foe of wasteful spending. In my opinion, Blain Mead has done a lot to keep County Government on a high level in the state of Pennsylvania. Warren County is indeed fortunate in having him as their County Commissioner.

Sincerely,

TO THE VOTERS OF WARREN COUNTY:

Although I have known Commissioner Blain M. Mead of Warren County for a longer period of time, for the past three years I have had the pleasure of working constantly with him in my dual role as Commissioner in Dauphin County and as Legislative Representative for the Pennsylvania State Association of County Commissioners.

In the past three years Mr. Mead served first as Vice President, then President of our Association, and as Chairman of the Executive Committee. Now as we enter the fourth year, Mr. Mead is serving as a member of the important Legislative Committee.

In each of his capacities he has demonstrated a dedication to the improvement of County Government that is unsurpassed. He contributed substantially to the formation of a School for New County Commissioners, an important Election Study Committee, the development of the Pennsylvania Department of Community Affairs, and the Association of Northwest Tour Counties to name just a few, but all which accrue advantages not only to the taxpayers of Warren County, but also to the taxpayers of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania.

Warren County cannot afford to lose Commissioner Blain Mead.

VOTERS GUIDE FOR WARREN COUNTY

Primary Election -- May 16, 1967

Polls Open 7 A.M.; Close 8 P.M.

Published by the League of Women Voters of Warren area which does not support or oppose any political party or candidate for public office, but encourages its members to participate as individuals in the party of their choice. "The sources of the voters guide information are the candidates' signed answers to league questionnaires."

The purpose of a Primary Election is the nomination of party candidates to appear on the slate for the Municipal Election. Since Pennsylvania has a closed primary, the voter may choose candidates only within the party in which he is registered. Thus a voter must be registered in a party to vote in a primary. However, even if he is registered non-partisan, any voter may vote on all ballot questions which might appear on a primary ballot and may also vote for any "special election" which might appear on the primary ballot.

The vital problem is keeping citizens aware that they must elect, support, and work with commissioners who realize the urgency of far-sighted, unified, sound, consistent, long-range planning and action NOW to prevent being overwhelmed later by the accumulation of unsolved problems resulting unavoidably from rapidly changing modern conditions.

The philosophy of economy by doing nothing is in this case like saying pennies today by letting the roof leak; then spending dollars later patching up the resulting damage.

I am a board member of the board of supervisors of Limestone Twp. (Secretary and Treasurer)

ANSWER TO QUESTION:

I believe it is imperative, we hold a tax line, that we may be able to attract new industry to our county. I am interested in decentralization of industry in the county. I believe this is necessary in order to create a better economic status for the county as a whole.

Low cost housing (by private capital) for our aged and reduction of personal taxes for those who have reached the retirement years.

The problems of today and tomorrow are more complex than those of yesterday. The solution will require the total energy and best thought and courage of all of us.

The future is challenging, but it is also promising. We have the resources, and I hope we have the foresight to meet the future on its own terms.

Past President of Pennsylvania Association of County Commissioners. At present, I am a member of the Legislative Committee for the State of Pennsylvania Commissioners Association.

ANSWER TO THE QUESTION:

I believe the two major problems facing the county in the immediate future are these: Taxes and adequate housing for the elderly. These problems are linked, because, high property and per capita taxes are a burden on the aged. We have seen our taxes grow and grow in the last decade with little or nothing additional in the way of services to show for it. We have let ourselves be blinded by the glamour of "free" federal money, forgetting that we have to pay for our part, too. Warren County's population is growing older, and, decent, respectable housing for the retired person is a must. Nothing has been done in this direction. I believe it is high time it was.

The second problem is the need for suitable physical environment for this population; better means of public transportation, better roads, zoning, etc.

Age 46
District—Warren County

Incumbent—No.

Education: Graduate of Warren High School

Occupation: Acting Postmaster of Clarendon Boro.

EXPERIENCE AND TRAINING FOR THIS OFFICE:

Experienced in Youth Corps work, Supports scouting and all Youth organizations. Initiated supervised playground for the young people. Completed a course in following subjects: Planning and Zoning, Budgets and Reports, Township Government, Borough and City Government, Construction of Road.

ANSWER TO QUESTION:

The two most important problems facing Warren County in the next four years are low cost housing and road improvement.

The elderly need housing as soon as possible within reach of their income from Social Security, and a tax exemption of personal property tax. Our military men and women serving this country will also need adequate housing units, I feel this is important. To keep our young men and women located in our County, which will make for a good economy, and for further growth of industry.

Furthermore, I recommend more and quicker action on betterment and improvement of Secondary Roads. These serve Warren County residents coming and going to their places of employment. Examples of county roads needing improvement are: from Warren to Scandia, from intersection of Route 6 to Cherry Grove; from Tidioute Boro to Titusville; from Lander to Lotzville, from Lotzville to Columbus; from intersection of Route 62 to Yankee Bush on Follett Run Road to Sugar Grove Road.

If elected, I promise to spend full time as a County Commissioner, with visitation to all parts of the county to study the needs of the people, and to get their opinion on county problems.

ANSWER TO QUESTION:
To administer to the office so that the growing needs of its service to the people of Warren County are met & will be met in the future. In connection with these needs, the Office holder should endeavor to make certain that the important records of this office are protected against loss; and to continually update and keep these records in a modern, simplified form so that any individual with normal intelligence can find what he is looking for without a lot of unnecessary work and effort.

A background in business; and experience as newspaper editor and writer, during which period my duties made it possible to observe the workings of government on three levels, local, county and state.
ANSWER TO QUESTION:
To afford the maximum of efficient service consistent with economy, to every private individual, attorney and representative of individuals. To meet the top requirements of the attorneys and trust departments, to whom, acting in behalf of their clients, 85 per cent of our service is rendered. Warren County's present systems in all three branches of this office meet with their entire approval.

As is expected of holders of this office in counties of our size, to be completely full-time on the job and to participate actively in the duties of the office. Because I have been equipped and willing to do this, our staff was decreased by one three years ago, resulting in a saving of approximately $12,000 to the taxpayers during the four-year term. This was effected without requiring any member of the staff to work any overtime and without hiring a single temporary clerk at any time.

State changes the Tax Laws while I am your County Treasurer I will accept it and perform my duty as directed. ANSWER TO QUESTION:
The challenge to the School Board is to develop and maintain an effective single unit school system which offers a quality education to all Warren Co. students. Progress has been made but more remains.
Many of our school buildings are antiquated. The School Board must have a realistic building program.
Well trained and dedicated teachers are essential to a quality educational system. In our urbanized society, our salary schedule must be competitive, if we expect and keep first rate teachers.
I am seeking the office of School Board Director for I believe that nothing is more important than the education of its young people. To have this post would be an honor and a rare privilege for me.

NO DOUBT ABOUT IT

Umpire Bill Williams makes sure everyone knows that Tony Taylor is safe at third in a recent Philadelphia-Atlanta ball game. Cleto Boyer of the Braves seems to have a different idea about the call. Boyer managed to clip the umpire, accidentally, on the attempted tag. This action occurred on a blastoff to the wall which went for a triple by Taylor. The Phillies posted a 4-3 win.

Knights Take Triangular, Larson Sets 2 Mile Mark

A strong showing in a number of events pushed the Eisenhower Knights to a double win at Randolph, N.Y., yesterday as they downed the Cardinals and Bradford Central Christian.

The final score of the match was Eisenhower 99, Randolph 63, and Bradford CC 8.

Eisenhower won 10 of the 16 events with the Cardinals getting the other six wins. It was the depth of the Knights more than anything else that spelled the win.

Only Knight Gary Olson won more than once for the winners. Jim Fox scored a pair of wins for the Cardinals. He swept the dashes with times of 1:0.8 in the 100 and 2:3.3 in the 220.

Olson scored a win in the 440 yard run with a time of 1:56.6. His winning toss in the shot put measured 40 feet.

In the 120 high hurdles, Craig Stewart won the event with a time of 17.8. John Wiltzie posted a victory in the 880 with a fine time of 2:10.5. Dan Larson ran to a new record time in the two mile run. His time was 10:49.5, breaking the mark he recently established at the Youngsville Invitational. Gary Dalrymple soared to a height of 10'11" to win the pole vault. Martin Hoffman leaped 5'10" to claim five points in the high jump. Barton Lohnes was surprise winner in the long jump with a winning distance of 17'11". Dave Burnett was the

Bucs Trip Atlanta, 5-2; Azcue Sparks Tribe Romp

NEW YORK (AP) — Jim Palmer pitched a one-hitter, allowing only Horace Clarke to reach base on a leadoff single in the seventh inning, as the staggering Baltimore Orioles ended a six-game losing streak by crushing the New York Yankees 14-0 last night.

Palmer, the Orioles' winningest pitcher of 1966 who has been having trouble getting started this year, retired the first 18 Yankees he faced, but Clarke, hitting .203, led off the seventh and hit the first pitch on a line to center field for a single.

Tom Tresh, the next batter, promptly grounded to second for the start of a double play, and Palmer retired the rest of the Yankees, facing the minimum 27 batters and gaining his second victory against one defeat.

Frank Robinson and Paul Blair led the Orioles' 16-hit attack, driving in eight runs on seven hits between them.

Robinson singled across Baltimore's first run in the third inning, brought home another run with a single in the fourth, fifth and added a two-run single in the seven-run eighth.

Blair rapped three singles and a double, driving in two runs in the fifth and two more in the eighth. Andy Etchebarren, who had four hits, Brooks Robinson and Boog Powell each drove in two runs.

Pirates-Braves

PITTSBURGH (AP) — Matty Alou and Roberto Clemente cracked third inning home runs last night and paced Pittsburgh to a 5-2 victory over the Atlanta Braves.

The solo shots gave the Pirates and Billy O'Dell a 2-1 lead they never relinquished. O'Dell gave up four hits, struck out three and walked two before a blister on his left hand forced him out of the game with one out in the eighth.

It was the third victory without a loss for the diminutive southpaw, who has come back from a severe off-season attack of Addison's Disease to earn a place in the Pirate starting rotation.

Elroy Face preserved the victory, allowing one hit for the last 1 2/3 innings.

Singles by Alou, Clemente and Manny Mota gave the Pirates a run in the seventh inning. Clemente came home when outfielder Rico Carty threw wild at third, and Billy Mazarowski's single scored Mota.

Hank Aaron's first-inning double drove in Denis Menke with the Braves' first run. Mike de la Hoz homered for the Braves in the eighth.

Indians-Senators

WASHINGTON (AP) — Max Alvis drove in five runs with a homer and a single and paced Cleveland to a 12-5 rout of the Washington Senators last night.

Alvis and Lee Maye each drove in two runs in a five-run sixth that pulled the Indians from behind, and Alvis helped put it out of reach in the six-run ninth.

Washington pitcher Barry Moore doubled in two runs in the four-run fifth that staked the Senators to a 4-1 lead.

Maye's two-run, pinch hit double and Alvis' key single wiped that out in the sixth; and the Indians went into the ninth with a 6-5 lead.

The six-run Indian burst, built around Alvis' three-run homer, put it away. It was his third homer of the season.

Joe Azcue hit his first homer of the season in the fourth.

Gary Bell had a no-hitter going until Moore's double in the fifth, and Gorge Culver, the third Cleveland pitcher, was credited with the victory.

Cardinals-Mets

ST. LOUIS (AP) — Mike Shannon's bases-loaded single climaxed a five-run eighth inning for St. Louis and lifted the Cardinals to a 7-5 victory over the New York Mets last night.

The Mets held a 5-2 lead built on Jerry Buchek's three-run homer when Julian Javier's broken-bat single opened the Cardinal eighth.

Pinch hitter Dave Ricketts singled, Javier reaching third and a force play produced the first run of the inning.

Then Lou Brock and Curt Flood singled, Roger Maris doubled and Orlando Cepeda was purposely walked, setting the stage for Shannon's winning hit.

Tigers-Red Sox

BOSTON (AP) — The streaking Detroit Tigers scored three runs without a hit, another on an error and defeated Boston 5-4 last night.

It was the sixth straight victory for the Tigers and their ninth triumph in the last 10 games.

Earl Wilson limited the Red Sox to four hits until the ninth when he tired. Fred Gladding came on to finish up.

Norm Cash homered for the Tigers, who scored two runs against Red Sox starter Darrell

Brandon in the third inning on three straight walks, a wild pitch and an error.

The Tigers' final run in the eighth came when Al Kaline walked and reached third on an attempted steal when catcher Bob Tilton's throw hit relief pitcher John Wyatt in the side of the head. Wyatt remained in the game and surrendered the run on a sacrifice fly.

Athletics-Twins

ST. PAUL-MINNEAPOLIS (AP) — Jim Nash stymied Minnesota on two hits and Rick Monday homered carrying Kansas City to a 2-1 victory over the Minnesota Twins last night.

Nash, notching his fourth victory against two losses, allowed a bunt single by Rod Carew in the first inning and lost his shut-out bid in the sixth when Twins' relief pitcher Dave Boswell lashed a solo homer--his first in the majors.

Nash struck out seven and walked three.

Kansas City got to Twins starter and loser Jim Kaat, 1-4, for eight hits in the first four innings, but the A's managed only two runs as Kaat pitched his way out of two jams and Boswell rescued him from a third. It was the seventh straight time Kaat, a 25-game winner last year, failed to finish.

Reds-Phillies

CINCINNATI (AP) — Don Pavletich drove in three runs with a double and a bases-loaded single and led the Cincinnati Reds to a 4-2 victory over Philadelphia last night.

Sammy Ellis limited the Phils to five hits and--after the first two innings -- had little trouble in picking up his third victory in five decisions.

John Briggs singled and Richie Allen walked in the first, and both scored when Tommy Harper and Dick Simpson collided trying to catch Tony Gonzalez' long fly.

Dick Ellsworth held the Reds hitless until the fifth when Tony Perez led off with a single. The next batter was hit by a pitch and Pavletich's double to right drove in one run. Another scored on an infield out.

Chico Ruiz and Pete Rose hit consecutive singles to start the sixth and both scored on Pavletich's single off reliever Dick Hall.

ChiSox-Angels

CHICAGO (AP) — J. C. Martin drove in his first run of the season with a fifth inning double, giving the Chicago White Sox a 1-0 victory over California last night.

Joe Horlen, who won his fourth game without a loss, limited the Angels to five hits but needed ninth inning help from Bob Locker to nail down the victory.

Chicago's run was unearned following an error by Jim Fregosi.

With one out in the fifth, Tom McCraw singled, Ken Berry forced McCraw, but Fregosi's relay on an attempted double play was wide and Berry took second. Martin, who came into the game with a .036 average, then doubled Berry home.

Jack Sanford limited the Sox to three hits before being lifted for a pinch batter in the eighth but suffered his second defeat in three decisions.

Beaty Team Second in 3-Way Meet

SOUTH DAYTON, N.Y. — A weakened Beatty Junior High School track team was edged yesterday by Southwestern but did manage to finish way ahead of Falconer.

The final score of the meet was Southwestern 63, Beatty 55 and Falconer 10. Beatty was missing many boys, because of a field trip, and others for disciplinary reasons.

Eddie O'Neill set a new Beatty record in the high jump as he leaped 5'4". This broke the mark of 5'3" that he tied last week. O'Neill also won his second meet in the 440 yard dash. He circled the oval in :59.1.

Other winners for the Blue and Gold were Dan Pierce in the 880 (2:13.5), Jon Owens in the 150-yard dash (:17.3) and Jim Bullock in the Shot put (:54").

Sports of The Times Arthur Daley The Tiger Hunter

NEW YORK — The most stupid question that can be asked a boxer of the eve of a fight is this: "How do you feel?" At that point in his training regimen it should be presumed that he's bursting all over with vim, vigor and vitality. But when it was tossed Wednesday at Jose Torres, it was both pertinent and necessary.

The volatile Puerto Rican will seek to regain his Light Heavyweight Championship from that ancient Nigerian warrior, Dick Tiger, in Madison Square Garden on Tuesday. Five months previously to the day the 3-10-1 favorite, Torres, gave such a lackluster performance while losing his crown to the tenacious 37-year-old that the Boxing Commission had second thoughts on him. Considering too late Torres' past medical history of acute pancreatitis, the Commission made the ex post facto ruling that he now was on the "ill and unavailable" list.

Wednesday, the Commission doctors gave Torres a searching examination and made him totally available. This merely confirmed the answer that the smiling Jose had given earlier in the day to a question that no longer was stupid.

"I feel 100 per cent," he said and he looked it. There was sparkle in his eyes and a taut eagerness in his body. "Before the last fight I had had some bad days. One doctor told me, 'You're okay but don't get hit in the body.'"

The unfortunate part of fistfighting is that a fighter has a slight amount of difficulty in following such medical advice. But Torres sure tried to do precisely that. He was so busy covering up that he forgot to throw punches, especially his stinging jab and his smothering combinations. He didn't do much of anything as Tiger was credited with winning by a big margin on every official scorecard.

"I just didn't throw punches," said Jose, disgust intruding on the politeness of his conversation. "I didn't realize I was covering up so much but I guess I did. I was worried. I fight with my hands in front of my face and drop my elbows to cover the body. He only got in one good punch—it came in my best round early in the fight—and was a left hook to the jaw. They said he punished me in the body. But he didn't. I blocked almost every inch with my elbows."

"I remember only one body punch. Tiger let it go just as bell ending the second round. I felt pain for the first time and it reminded me of my pancreas. But as soon as I sat down on the stool in the corner, the pain went away. It made me worry more."

"But now I have no worries. I will do to Tiger now what I should have done to him the first time. I even feel I can knock him out."

The guys who back up their opinions with money apparently agree with Torres. They have made him an 8 to 5 favorite.

It has been a strangely frustrating career that the gifted Torres has had. He was hailed as a future champion shortly after he came under the managerial aegis of Gus D'Amato, the original proprietor of Floyd Patterson and Jose even uses the Patterson peekaboo style. But the over-protective D'Amato kept him in cotton batting during the equivalent of five years in cold storage before Jose made his escape.

Now he is 31 years old and the only memorable fight of his career was when he destroyed Willie Pastrano in 1965 for the Light Heavyweight Championship. Not long thereafter his trouble began.

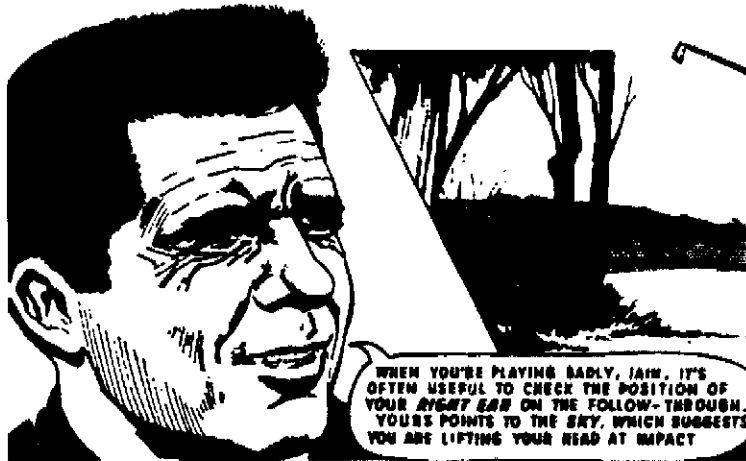

"After I beat Tom McNeeley in San Juan," he said, "I began to feel bad. I ran a fever and got pains in my stomach. Finally I went to a specialist who gave me a blood test and said I had an acute case of pancreatitis. I spent four weeks in a hospital and my weight dropped from 182 to 158. It was eleven months before I fought again."

The elderly Tiger has always been an earnest, hard-working performer who never had been too spectacular. But his diligence earned him the Middleweight Championship and kept him a crowd-pleasing, attractive performer. It was indeed a shock when he was dethroned last April by Emile Griffith.

It was even more of a shock when he advanced to the light heavyweight class in December and outpointed Torres, the worried champion.

However, Torres' brow is serene these days. He no longer worries. All he has to do is fight the fight he's capable of fashioning to get back the crown he fretted away five months ago.

Knudson Leads New Orleans Open

By BEN THOMAS
Associated Press Sports Writer
NEW ORLEANS, La. (AP) — George Knudson, a slender freckle-faced Canadian, played with a glove for the first time in four years and fired a six-under par 66 yesterday to take the second round lead in the $100,000 Greater New Orleans Open Golf Tournament.

Coupled with his opening round 71, it gave the 29-year-old Knudson, last year's Canada Cup champion, a 137 for 36 holes.

Big Jack Nicklaus forged into contention when he holed out from the sand trap on No. 9, which he played as his last hole of the day. He finished with a 68 and was just one stroke behind the slender Knudson.

Left-handed Bob Charles, the former British Open champion from New Zealand, and tour regular Johnny Pott both carded 68s and were tied with Nicklaus for second place.

Frank Beard, winner of two tournaments in the past month, carded a 71 after taking two penalty strokes. He went into the water on one hole and was lodged behind a tree on another. Beard shared the first round lead with Gardner Dickinson, who ballooned to a 74 yesterday for a 42.

Beard's 71 put him two strokes behind Knudson. With him at 139 was Mason Rudolph, the bespectacled Tennessee shotmaker who won this tourney three years ago.

All alone at 140 was 22-year-old Allan Henning of South Africa, who shot 71. Three foreigners were among the top eight Why didn't he wear a glove in the past?

"When I was a kid I couldn't afford one," replied the tousle-haired Knudson.

His round included an eagle on the second hole when he sank a nine-iron shot from 110 yards out. He had a 40-foot birdie putt on No. 6 and a pair of three-footers at seven and eight to tour the front nine in 32—four under regulation.

Racing Star Unhurt in 500 Mishap

INDIANAPOLIS, Ind. (AP) — Lee Roy Yarborough, Southern stock car racing star, crawled unhurt from his smashed and burning Mongoose Ford yesterday at the Indianapolis Motor Speedway in the 13th mishap in 14 days of practice for today's 500-mile race qualifications.

Nobody has been injured—a tribute to rollbars, shoulder harness and helmets.

Yarborough, 28, of Columbia, S.C., had been running over 164 miles per hour and was expected to qualify well up in the field in the two weekends of 10-mile trials.

The solid favorite for the pole position, however, remained U.S. Auto Club champion Mario Andretti.

The Italian-born Nazareth, Pa., driver has been wheeling his Brawner Hawk around the track faster than anybody else all month.

Jim Harding Named Cage Coach at LaSalle College

By RALPH BERNSTEIN
AP Sports Writer

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — Jim Harding, who twice before successfully coached college basketball teams before leaving the sport for industrial jobs, was announced yesterday head coach of the LaSalle College Explorers.

Harding was given a four-year contract by LaSalle, whose president said a few days ago that the institution's athletic program was being reevaluated with a view toward strengthening it. LaSalle seeks a return to the top of the Eastern college basketball rankings.

The 38-year-old Harding has worked for a Milwaukee firm since resigning after the 1963 season as coach at Gannon College in Erie, Pa., when the college declined to go "big time" in basketball. In three years at Gannon his teams won 57 and lost 14, and twice played in the post season NAIA tournament.

Before coming to Gannon,

Harding, a graduate of the University of Iowa, coached high school teams in Wisconsin, Iowa and Illinois, winning 107 and losing 23, and handled for one year the Loyola of New Orleans quintet.

At Loyola, his team in the 1957-58 season won 16, lost 9,—the school's best record in 16 years — and wound up in the NCAA tournament. Thus in four seasons of college coaching, Harding's teams were in three post-season tournaments.

He succeeds 28-year-old Joe Heyer, who resigned at the end of last season after a two-year tenure which produced 10-15 and 14-12 records. Heyer and athletic director Jim Henry were hung in effigy last winter by students dissatisfied with the LaSalle court record. Harding will be the fifth LaSalle basketball coach since Ken Loeffler resigned after the 1958 season. Jim Pollard, Duddle Moore, Bob Walters and Heyer have tried the job and either quit or were dismissed.

Harding, who also was assistant athletic director at Loyola is a native of Clinton, Iowa, and lettered in football and basketball at the University of Iowa. During his years out of coaching he kept active by scouting for a number of colleges.

He steps into one of the toughest basketball situations in the East, competing in the city's Big Five round robin which includes Villanova, Temple, St. Joseph's and Penn., and against one of the nation's roughest schedules. He'll inherit four lettermen and a promising sophomore contingent.

Sportsmen Should Know How Less Service Can Cost More!!

Until the present county treasurer took office, the holders of the office served the sportsmen before the antlerless deer season by giving them their choice of the method of applying.

Remember? When Homer Bowersox, Bob Ritchie and Bill Rice were county treasurers, sportsmen applied for antlerless deer licenses either in person or by mail.

When the present treasurer conducted his doe license sales, he insisted sportsmen apply by mail only and sent many a hunter down town to buy a stamp and envelope.

We might have been sympathetic if it were done for reasons of economy. Actually, it has cost the county more by far in extra help than it did the previous treasurer who tried to serve the sportsmen in the manner to which they were entitled.

In 1960, issuing licenses over the counter or by mail, the treasurer's office contracted for $205.45 in extra help. Four years later the present treasurer spent $673.50 of the taxpayers' money in issuing licenses only by mail. In 1961 my office spent $165.00 in extra help — in 1965 the incumbent's method of issuing licenses cost Warren County's taxpayers $718.00.

There can be no comparison of the third years because the present treasurer had employed much full-time help, some of whom were working on the tax book now being publicized.

It will be a welcome bit of news to sportsmen that both Republican candidates for county treasurer have promised to return to the Bowersox-Ritchie-Rice system of worrying first about service to the hunters and second about convenience to the treasurer.

The incumbent treasurer now wants to take this "service" to the office of Register & Recorder.

Frankly, can any of us afford less service that costs more money?

I have pledged, if re-elected Register & Recorder, to place service and economy first. By my record, you know I mean to do so.

Let's re-elect:

ONE CASE CONTINUED

Three Sentenced
By Judge Flick

Three men were sentenced before Judge Alexander C. Flick Jr. yesterday morning and a fourth scheduled to appear failed to report.

Sentencing was continued in the case of the Commonwealth vs. C.R. Cole, 640 Hemlock st., charged with false pretense by check. District Attorney Samuel F. Bonavita told the judge that Cole was scheduled for surgery and this may have prevented his appearance yesterday.

Donald E. Wilson Jr., of 13½ Madison ave., facing four counts on charges of driving without an operator's license, had three counts dismissed and given a minimum sentence on one. He was sentenced to pay $100 fine, costs and serve three days in jail with credit for one.

The jurist warned Wilson, however, that in view of the other charges placed against him, including driving during suspension, that if he again operates a motor vehicle illegally, he will be sentenced to six months in the Allegheny workhouse. The defendant was given six months in which to pay fine and costs.

Lloyd E. Exeley, RD 3, Sugar Grove, charged with fraudulent pretense, after passing two worthless checks, one for $10 at Finley's Sport Store, April 20 and a second for $15 at the A&P market, April 26, was ordered to 90 days in the county jail but paroled yesterday. Restitution was also part of the sentence.

On the stand to testify against Exeley, Chief Deputy Sheriff Richard E. Hegerty advised the court he has been told a store in Pittsfield was holding two additional checks passed there by the defendant in the amounts of $15.31 and $10.25.

Andrew William Monstrom, of 117 N. South st., charged with drunken driving by Sugar Grove police chief Claude Perrigo, was sentenced to pay a $120 fine, costs and serve three days in jail with credit for one.

Trinity
Approves
New Funds

The grants committee of Trinity Memorial Church recommended and the vestry approved about $10,000 in 1967 from endowment fund income to be released outside the Warren parish.

The mission church of St. John the Divine in Agaña, Guam, is to receive $6,000.

This "Mission to Mirconesia" was initiated by the Rev. Richard H. Baker, rector of Trinity Church, when he served as a missionary in Guam from 1957 to 1960.

In addition to the primary responsibility on Guam, the Vicar of St. John's also serves Saipan, Chi Chi Jima, Wake and the Western Carolines.

While on Guam, Mr. Baker, claimed the largest parish, geographically, in the world—three million square miles but with a land surface of only about 600 square miles.

A second grant was accorded a student to attend the Virginia Theological School in Alexandria and the third goes to the Diocesan Department of Missions where the grant will be made to St. Francis of Assisi in Youngsville.

Increases by 400

"There are 400 more persons working in Warren County now than a year ago," says Andrew J. Donick, manager Pennsylvania State Employment Service office here.

There are at present 500 unemployed in the total civilian work force of 18,400. This represents 2.7 per cent of the work force. The latest statewide rate is 3.3 percent. There is a decrease of 100 estimated for wage and salary workers.

During the week of April 20, there were 289 claims filed for all types of unemployment compensation benefits at the Warren Bureau of Employment Security office. Total for February was identical with the current mark, the year ago figure of 127.

FOR ONE MILLION PLUS

Eisenhower Bond Issue Awarded

Warren County School District Board members Thursday accepted bids from Moore, Leonard and Lynch Inc., Pittsburgh, on $1,355,000 of school building revenue bonds, Series A, at 3.97 per cent average interest.

These bonds are to finance construction of alterations and additions to Eisenhower High School at Lander. Norge E. Luvison, director of buildings and grounds, said construction will begin about June 15. Target for completion of the project is December 18, 1968.

Some Warren County school construction is financed under the State Public School Authority, but most projects are under the local authority.

Moore, Leonard and Lynch Inc., purchase the $1,355,000 in bonds from the authority, and provide the funds to the authority as needed. Moore, Leonard and Lynch Inc. in turn market the bonds, amortized over 25 years. The bonds are tax-free.

Luvison said financing with these bonds has great built in flexibility, in that the local authority can re-finance them if and when the bond market would be more favorable.

The new additions will bring the capacity of Eisenhower High School to 1,141 students. Present rated capacity is for 600 students, with 729 attending now.

Luvison said the authority is gratified that total bids are a little over $50,000 under original construction estimates. Generally, he said, state-wide bids have been running considerably over estimates. He attributes this to good planning on the part of the architects for the school district and their arriving at reasonable estimates.

Beyer Construction Company of Warren is general contractor.

Beyer's bid for general construction was $673,165. Plumbing construction successful bidder was David N. Brown and Son, Bradford, at $89,821. Heating and Ventilation construction contractor is R. E. North Co., Erie, who bid $144,000. Electrical construction contractor is Bevevino Electric of Warren, at $150,240. Science laboratory equipment contracts went to John Sjostrom of Warrendale, Pa., at $30,935.

Other items include: Architects fees $65,155. Movable fixtures and equipment $85,520. Site cost—which includes rough grading, sewage disposal plant architects fees on disposal plant, and site cost, $102,705. Additional costs for Authority and Trustee expense, Bond counsel, project supervision and contingencies, $50,310.

Total cost of entire project is $1,389,601. Because of interest earned on construction fund monies during construction amounting to $34,601, total bond issue is $1,355,000.

Trustee is Pennsylvania Bank and Trust Company, of Warren. Bonds may be purchased in denominations of $5,000.

Trinity Church
Scores 'First'

Trinity Memorial Episcopal Church has been selected to participate in a program that is a "first" in the parish.

Stephen Frampton, a mid-level at General Theological Seminary, will come to Trinity Church this summer, June 24 to August 20, under the Middle Atlantic Provincial Training Program.

The program in which the Rev. Richard H. Baker, rector, the parish, and the student are involved is under the general auspices of the Division of Christian Ministries of the Home Department of the National Council.

The parish training program is designed to support and advance "on-the-job" training in the professional parish ministry. It is a disciplined educational endeavor in which the student is exposed to a period of life and work in the parish under trained supervision.

A lay committee will serve in consultation with the rector.

A National Church program, the seminarian training idea is designed to be entirely different and it is hoped that much will be derived from the experience. Only 25 men were selected from the entire province, two of whom are assigned to the Episcopal Diocese of Erie, including the Warren church. The third student will work with the Rev. George Hall, a former Warren State Hospital chaplain now in Washington.

Born in Olean, N.Y., Frampton was raised in Eldred, Pa. He graduated from Grove City College in June, 1965 and was accepted by Bishop Crittenden as a Postulant for Holy Orders.

At seminary he is a member of the Motet Choir and active in the Theatre Guild. He and his wife, Pamela will be living on Madison ave.

Television Declines
Extension Request

Television Communications Corp., requested by borough council to delay recalling Capital Contribution Certificates earlier this week, has declined to extend the deadline.

But those still holding certificates, which originally were purchased for $125, can redeem them for $57 until next Wednesday, the company said yesterday.

The request made by council came after petitioners requested council to ask Warren Television to delay the recalling action until the matter could be investigated further.

F. Gordon Fuqua of the parent company made the negative reply this week in a letter to borough officials. The deadline of next Wednesday was made for administrative reasons.

The recall affects nearly half of the company's subscribers, although not all have redeemable certificates. Those to be redeemed are Capital Contribution Certificates, not subscribers' certificates. The former cost $125 when purchased, the others were issued upon installation.

At the heart of the matter is an increase in rates of $2 for holders of the Capital Contribution Certificates. Instead of paying $3.95 per month, as they have been doing, they will pay the standard rate of $5.95 per month. Holders of the certificates which are being recalled, however, have realized a return of at least $300, including the amount paid in the recall. This includes the $2 in reduced rates for at least 10 years (the certificates were issued in the 1950's) and the $57 that is being paid in the recall.

Fuqua said the television company would, if council wished, discuss its rate structure and plans with borough representatives at an executive session.

CALL FROM SHAFER

URGING NINE YES VOTES

Local Man Receives
Call from Governor

By FRANKLIN R. HOFF

"Hello Sam! This is Ray Shafer calling," came over the wire as Sam Girardi, 4th Ward Republican committeeman answered his telephone at 4 p.m. Thursday.

"Your honor, it's a pleasure talking with you, and thank you for thinking of me," was Girardi's rejoinder.

"Just call me Ray, Sam, we've been friends for years," said the governor.

Governor Shafer explained he was calling to ask Girardi to get in touch with at least nine people, to urge them to vote "Yes" on the eight amendments and call for a constitutional convention on the ballot next Tuesday.

Girardi assured the governor he had already discussed them with two or three hundred voters throughout the county. Shafer stressed importance of approval by Pennsylvania voters of these amendments and call for constitutional convention for the welfare of Pennsylvania, because of the tremendous changes in government that have occurred since the present constitution was originally framed. He observed Pennsylvania is growing by leaps and bounds, but is handicapped by an archaic constitution.

On Wednesday, Girardi received a call, saying it was from the Governor's office in Harrisburg. He thought it was a gag, but was assured it was official, from Shafer's office in the Capitol. He was informed he would receive a personal telephone call from the governor Thursday afternoon. It was suggested he might want someone from the press on hand to report the occasion.

There has been a strong personal friendship between Governor Shafer and Sam Girardi extending over 28 years. "We've known each other since Ray Shafer was a practicing attorney in Meadville," Girardi recalls. Girardi was Republican Committeeman representing Warren's 4th Ward at that time. After serving for 11 years, he entered civil service employment in the Pennsylvania Department of Health and resigned as committeeman. After 20 years he transferred to the Department of Labor and Industry as a State Safety Inspector. He was then first appointed, and since elected as 4th Ward Republican Committee, and has served to the present time.

Governor Shafer asked to be remembered to all his friends in Warren County, and gave personal messages to be conveyed to several county leaders. He also relayed to Girardi personal greeting from Lieutenant Governor Ray Broderick.

In the past few days, as time permitted, Governor Shafer has been contacting old friends personally throughout the Commonwealth by telephone, to stress the importance of the constitutional reform issue on the ballot at Tuesday's primary.

The Governor expressed his pleasure and appreciation over the support his administration has received from Warren County.

Girardi reported to Shafer the intensive activity throughout Warren County by Republican leaders, from the County Chairman right through precinct workers urging a "Yes" vote on the amendments and call for constitutional convention. Girardi has a wide acquaintance throughout the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania, and in many other states, among political and civic leaders. As an authority on safety, he has served on committees and been a consultant in many cities, including Philadelphia and Erie.

The Colgate Comedy Hour was aired the other day for the first time in 10 years. It really shouldn't have been. There must have been something better to do, even in as bad a season as this.

I knew from the minute that Jack Benny walked onstage at the first of the show that there wasn't much to look forward to. The idea of the whole production was to provide the highlights of the past decade of American humor. I hope they are not thought of as successful in that venture; it was a rather dismal display.

Bob Newhart, whom I thought was funny the first time he did the drivers' instructor bit from "The Buttondown Mind," was less than convincing in his umpteenth reading of the same routine. Rossi and Allen presented their 2,000-year-old man thing that wasn't funny the first, second, third, fourth, or fifth time it was aired.

Shelley Berman was the only bright light, and that was his superior talent only. He did the telephone thing on his "Inside" album that has been aired several times. It's tired, but it's still Berman. I would have preferred something from his "Cleans and Ditties," but television has never let them on the air.

Colgate missed a few great comedy bits, but the program's dullness wasn't the result of selection. I'm more inclined to think that it was, indeed, the cream of the crop from the past 10 years.

And that's a sad commentary on the state of American comedy.

Ann Landers

Answers Your Problems

DEAR ANN LANDERS: I hope you will continue to advise girls who have had babies out of wedlock to tell their sweethearts BEFORE they marry. This is what happened to me: I had a little boy out of wedlock and decided to keep him. I cooked up a story about a brief, unsuccessful marriage which most people believed. When I met Ron I told him I was divorced. After several months of dating he asked me to marry him. I felt like the luckiest girl in the world.

Two weeks before the wedding my mother took me aside and told me I would be doing a terrible thing if I married Ron under a cloud of a lie. I wept and insisted I couldn't take a chance of losing him. If he was unable to accept me because of my past I would just die. After hours of talking, my mother persuaded me that she was right.

I told Ron the very next night. His reply was, "I knew it. I was just waiting to hear it from you. And now there is nothing between us to mar our perfect love."

So you see, Ann, once again truth paid off, in a way that a lie never could. Please keep telling the girls who are in my boat that there is only one way to handle this problem. The honest way—A HAPPY MRS WITH A CLEAR CONSCIENCE

Dear Happy Mrs.: You told them, dear. And, on behalf of all the girls whose minds you may have changed, I thank you.

DEAR ANN LANDERS: Quite some time ago my daughter-in-law suddenly stopped talking to my daughter. I tried to learn the details but nobody would talk about it.

This family rift bothered me and I decided to get to the bottom of it. Last week I wrote my daughter-in-law and asked her to tell me why she had stopped talking to my daughter. I said, "Perhaps there was a misunderstanding which I can help iron out." I was shocked at her answer. She wrote, "I have always despised your daughter and decided to stop going through the hypocritical motions of being nice to her."

This reply cut into my heart like a knife. How should I treat my son and his wife now? Should I ignore them as they have ignored my daughter? Or should I pretend that I did not receive the letter of explanation?—SORRY I ASKED

Dear Sorry: Let this be a lesson to all self-appointed members of ruptured relationships. The golden slogan "Mind Your Own Business" should be the cardinal rule for well-intentioned "fixers." Now, say nothing more. You've said too much already.

DEAR ANN LANDERS: I met this girl when we were counselors at a camp last summer. We are both 14. My parents met her and they like her a lot.

She wants me to spend a weekend with her (it is a nice bus ride from here, about 60 miles), but my folks won't let me go because they have never met her parents.

Does this make sense? I don't think so and I hope you'll be on my side.—MISSED Q

Dear Missed: I suggest that the girl's mother write or telephone your mother and introduce herself. This would make your folks less uneasy about allowing you to make the trip.

P.S. You ARE a girl aren't you? I'm assuming this although you didn't say.

Ann Landers will be glad to help you with your problems. Send them to her in care of this newspaper enclosing a stamped, self-addressed envelope.

Seigworth-Baker Vows Pledged In Epworth Church

The Epworth Methodist Church was the setting for the marriage of Jane Lee Seigworth and Robert Leroy Baker last Saturday, May 6, at 2 o'clock. The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Donald L. Seigworth of Leeper and the groom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. John L. Baker of 41 Mill street, Sheffield. The Rev. Ralph L. Romine, pastor of the church, read the double ring rites in the presence of approximately one hundred guests.

Wedding music was provided by the organist, Mrs. Ruth Guild, and by Miss Patty Griffith, vocalist. Lighted candles, palms, and vases of white gladioli and pompons ornamented the altar of the church.

Escorted on the arm of her father, the bride wore a long gown of imported silk organza styled with hasque bodice and long sleeves tapering to wedding points. A bouffant skirt accented with Chantilly lace and iridescents, tiered in back, swept into a chapel train. A crown of lace petals accented with seed pearls and crystals secured the elbow length bouffant veil. She carried a white Bible adorned with a cascade of white carnations.

The maid of honor, Miss Theresa Florentino of Jamestown, and the bridesmaid, Miss Susan Wanda of Columbus, were gowned identically in long dresses of a delicate pink nylon organza and taffeta with contrasts of green velvet. Reed Moore, Mrs. George Reiff, sisters of the bride, Mrs. Donald Koebley, Mrs. James Jewell, and Miss Carol Lawrence. Miss Mary Lee Moore, niece of the bride, was in charge of the guest book.

Her veil of silk illusion depended from a cluster of tulle petals with pearl trim and she carried a Dutch colonial bouquet of white Shasta daisies, gypsophylla and forget-me-nots and a handkerchief of her grandmother. Her only jewelry was a gold monogrammed locket given to her as a child by her late grandmother, Mrs. John Sweeney.

Hints From Heloise

Nylon Filters

Dear Folks:

Recently I have been painting and refinishing some furniture . . . mostly with spray cans full of that good old fizz stuff. But, oh, what a mess it can make. That mist gets everywhere, including your nose. And as I go barefoot when I paint, it gets all over my feet and legs.

I discovered today that if I put old nylon stockings on (with or without shoes) the fine spray mist would not adhere to my skin. Afterwards, all I had to do was remove the nylon stockings and discard them.

I also solved the problem of that fine mist in the air that goes up your nostrils.

I got a nylon stocking, cut it down the back where the seam was, then tied it over my nose like a masked bandit.

Know what? I could breathe through it and that fine mesh nylon caught all the paint mist. After all, we can't put paint remover in our noses, can we?

And remember, try to use spray paint outside or in the garage so you won't get it all over your house.

Heloise

DEAR HELOISE:

I always had trouble looking for a pressing cloth. Then one day, I thought of an item always close at hand.

Wet, thin, squeezed-out paper towels make a fine, lint-free pressing cloth. I use two torn off together to make a larger cloth.

Great for traveling!

WATER for BETTER LIVING

What about water supply? The question is asked thousands of times each year by industries seeking favorable locations for new plants. Usually it's the No. 1 question. If the answer is favorable it could mean new jobs, payrolls, and tax revenues to the community. If unfavorable, industries usually turn elsewhere and great opportunities are lost. Your water system is your community's best friend in the competition for new industry and new opportunities for better living for everybody.

Your Horoscope

By Frances Drake

Look in the section in which your birthday comes and find what your outlook is, according to the stars, FOR SATURDAY, MAY 13, 1967.
ARIES (March 21 to April 20)—Clever management will be a prime factor in your success now. One victory can start a chain of them going. Keep fit mentally, physically.
TAURUS (April 21 to May 21)—You born on the Cusp (near change of the Sign): Tighten the reins on temperament, criticism, self-bellittlement. All of you: Tone down aggressiveness, keep everything in line.
GEMINI (May 22 to June 21)—Do not be as anxious to get matters started as to determine HOW they should be begun AND continued. Not a dull day, unless you scatter energies or bog down. A new project can be enlivening.
CANCER (June 22 to July 23)—On the sure side, you won't default; if nervous or agitated, you could make several mistakes and give the wrong impression. Your course is obvious. Be serene.
LEO (July 24 to August 23)—The impact of your strengthened efforts can solidify gains now. Skilled action should bring progress in keeping with high hopes. Don't let opposition obscure your point of view.
VIRGO (August 24 to September 23)—In whatever you do or say, emphasize your most charming manner, which can outwit dissension, help prevent rifts. News of interest indicated.
LIBRA (September 24 to October 23)—Here is a pertinent spot for your sense of humor to be well placed, your agility with words smartly applied. Many opportunities to capitalize on your talents indicated.

SCORPIO (October 24 to November 22)—Like a hand in a glove your talents fit this vitally active period—one that requires steady persistence, but with it, astute thinking and painstaking planning.
SAGITTARIUS (November 23 to December 21)—There is power in the very act of negotiation, willingness to talk over disagreements with opponents. Here are the seeds of future success, soundly handled. Will you join?
CAPRICORN (December 22 to January 20)—Have you a plan? There must be some plan, even for little things. Nothing runs effectively without design, arranged steps. Weed out the non-essentials.
AQUARIUS (January 21 to February 19)—Healthy competition about: You may encounter some opposition. So try to act a bit differently. Keep at it; whittle down obstacles. That's what the day needs—stamina.
PISCES (February 20 to March 20)—Pick up where you left off yesterday, not jumping so far in advance of yourself that you miss essentials, have to retrace steps. Watch the budget.
YOU BORN TODAY are a fair-minded person who weighs all possibilities before making decisions, who aims to make those decisions for the good of all concerned, not a few. In Taurus there are excellent judges and lawyers, and your sense of humor plays no little part. You often take to the arts as a second career, or as a pastime. Having a well-regulated mind, you like to find the same in others; are disappointed and sometimes hurt when people do not understand your methods nor, seemingly, yourself. Never mind! Carry on! Birthdate of: Sir Arthur Sullivan, composer (Gilbert and Sullivan).

How to Keep Well

By Dr. T. R. Van Dellen

FOOD FROM THE SEAS
Many believe that recovering food from the seas will help solve the nutritional problems created by the population explosion. The articles I have read on the subject are not too optimistic. Marine gardening is less efficient than obtaining food from soil surfaces and ultimately we would be "starving the sea to feed the land."
It is true that oceans cover 70 per cent of the surface of the earth. An even greater proportion of the land surface in tropical areas is composed of water. On the other hand, the growth of marine plants depends upon the radiant energy of sunlight and therefore the rooted plants can only exist in oceans with depths down to 100 yards. Floating or planktonic plants are found over great areas of the oceans.
Water plants also require food to survive including salts of potassium, phosphorus, and nitrogen. The fertilizer content in the water varies in various localities and with different seasons. Areas rich in plankton where there is continuous replenishment of phosphate are excellent for fishing.
The fish population is going down because of more efficient methods of fishery, but this is of some concern because there is a tendency for more and more men to catch fewer and fewer fish. Collecting and utilizing marine plankton is not yet practicable. The same can be said of fertilizing the growth areas. Nutrients leached out from the land drain into the water and are trapped in the surface layers of the bottom mud. They do not fertilize the sea.
Land reclamation from the sea and reducing the rate of loss of fertilizer (including sewage) from land to sea may be the answer to the world's food problem.

Dr. Van Dellen will answer questions on medical topics if stamped, self-addressed envelope accompanies request.
PYLOROSPASM
Mrs. S. writes: What is spastic pylorus?
REPLY
Narrowing of the pyloric valve that separates the stomach from the small intestine. Spasm or contraction of the muscles occurs as a result of an emotional disturbance or irritation or ulceration of the lining of the stomach or intestine. In babies, allergy to milk may be responsible. Some infants come into the world with a pyloric valve that is so thickened, surgery must be done to relieve obstruction. Ordinary spasm is relieved by medication.
ONE BABY OR TWO
R. V. writes: Does twinning skip a generation? My wife is a twin, and since we are expecting I would like to know whether to plan on baby shoes for one or two.
REPLY
Predictions along this line are unreliable, but X-rays after the fourth month may prove worthwhile. On the other hand, you can safely wait, because shoes will not be needed for several months after birth.
FEET AND EAR INFECTIONS
D. C. writes: Can athlete's foot spread to the ear?
REPLY
No; they are two separate infections caused by different types of organisms. Send a stamped, self-addressed envelope for leaflet on athlete's foot.
TODAY'S HEALTH HINT—A sunburn can damage the skin permanently.

WEEK'S PREVIEW

NBC Children's Theatre will present "A Boston Pops Concert for Youngsters" at 6:30 p. m. Sunday. This promises to be a thoroughly delightful hour for both children and adults, as Arthur Fiedler conducts the Boston Pops Orchestra in Saint-Saens' "Carnival of Animals" while artist Lisl Weil is on stage illustrating Ogden Nash's whimsical verses read by Hugh Downs.

Later the same night, NBC offers "Jack Paar and a Funny Thing Happened on the Way to Hollywood." On Sunday afternoon, ABC repeats "The Beautiful Blue and Red Danube." CBS presents "Town Meeting of the World" Monday night which features Senator Robert Kennedy and Gov. Ronald Reagan in a question-and-answer discussion of world affairs with university students in Great Britain.

Sportswise, there is baseball Saturday afternoon (and Pirate games Monday, Tuesday and Wednesday nights); the New Orleans Golf Open Sunday afternoon; professional soccer on Sunday; and a light heavyweight fight Tuesday night.

SUNDAY NIGHT

SCHEDULE FOR WPSX

Starting Sunday night, WPSX-TV, Ch. 3 (educational channel) will offer an evening schedule which includes "A Conversation with Leverett Saltonstall," a discussion centering around the Senator's career, his views on current political issues, and the changing image of the Senator. May 14 are "The Artist and His Time," featuring a discussion of "The Fall of the Ideals of Renaissance: Roman and Florentine Masters"; Senator Wayne Morse as guest on "In My Opinion" and used cars the topic for "Your Dollars Worth"; and concluding with "Portrait of a Young Pianist," featuring performances by Alan Mandel.

With the school year in its final days, WPSX-TV is discontinuing its daytime, inservice schedule but will resume in the fall.

A quick glance at next week's schedule lists a play Monday night, "Dark Lovers"; "The Gospel According to Peanuts" on Tuesday night; a program on the Food and Drug Administration, News in Perspective by the New York Times staff, and a play, "He Who Gets Slapped" on Wednesday night.

A VERY SPECIAL SEASON

Networks are ballyhooing 1967-68 as "a very special season" and numerically it may be. Nearly 300 specials are already projected, between 170 and 180 in the entertainment class and more than 115 news specials, an increase of 70 over the current season and 115 more than year before last.

Among ABC's entertainment specials will be Academy Awards, Tony Awards, New American Beauty Pageant, Deb Star Ball, Miss Teenage International beauty contest, the International Beauty Contest, Personality specials featuring respectively Carol Channing, Debbie Reynolds, Princess Grace of Monaco, Sophia Loren and Shirley MacLaine, Who's Afraid of Mother Goose, Holiday in Mexico, several blockbuster movies including The King and I, cultural specials including 12 each for the Wednesday and Sunday movie slots, A Christmas Memory, and at least 23 unnamed specials.

NBC has 55 entertainment specials definitely sewed up. These will include Miss America, Golden Globe Awards, Orange, Sugar and Rose Bowls, Junior Miss Beauty Pageant, Macy's Thanksgiving Day Parade, and Grammy Awards. Personalities will include Bob Hope (9), Andy Williams (3), Danny Thomas (6), and one each with Jack Benny, Bill Cosby and Rock Hudson. Then there will be Androcles and the Lion, Sneak Preview with Rowan and Martin, Ice Follies and Ice Capades, Ringling Bros., Barnum & Bailey Circus, Big Cats Little Cats, The Fabulous Funnies, Radio City at Christmas Time, Legend of Robin Hood, four musical "Salutes", Saturday Night Around the World, and repeats of Lorne Green Christmas, Mr. Magoo's Christmas, Rudolph the Red-Nosed Reindeer, five new Hallmark Hall of Fame shows, Down to the Sea in Ships, Flesh and Blood, and 14 Bell Telephone Hour specials.

CBS projects 52 entertainment specials, plus eight repeats. Here we'll find Miss U.S.A., Miss Teenage America, Miss Universe, Model of the Year, Cotton Bowl, tournament of Roses and Thanksgiving parades. Personalities include Dick Van Dyke, Barbra Streisand, Red Skelton, Don Knotts, Jim Nabors, Lucille Ball, Frank Sinatra and Eddie Albert.

One new and four repeat Charlie Brown shows, Marineland Carnival, one new Dr. Seuss (Horton Hears a Who) and a repeat of How the Grinch Stole Christmas, eight to ten of the Children's Film Festival series, The Sweetest Sounds (Richard Rodgers), and repeats of Wizard of Oz and Cinderella.

Cultural specials will include two with Hal Holbrook, Mark Twain Tonight, and a new one; three Shakespeare productions, King Lear, Macbeth and Midsummer Night's Dream, two readings of Oscar Wilde's works; At the Drop of Another Hat, From Chekhov With Love, Spoon River, four CBS Playhouse dramas, four National Geographic specials, four children's concerts, two unselected dramas, and possibly "Robert Frost: Promises to Keep".

Network news specials will include two political conventions and at least five presidential primaries.

The network season gets off to its earliest start yet, with CBS announcing its fall programming will begin Tuesday, Sept. 5, with NBC and ABC following Sept. 10 and 11. But changes can and do happen, as witness last fall when Sept. 11 was set as the official opening date. ABC sneak-previewed 12 of its 16 new shows a week early and NBC premiered three of its new entries in advance.
